Mattson will 'rap' it up at contest in Wrigley Field

by GLORIA DAVIS

Although it actually has nothing to do with the holidays, Robert Mattson, 18, Antioch, will be keeping in the spirit of the season when he 'raps' it up at Wrigley Field on Wednesday, Dec. 9.

Mattson, an '86 graduate of Antioch High School now a freshman majoring in computer sciences at Western Ill. University and son of Robert and Carol Mattson, will be competing against nine other finalist in the statewide Rock and Romance Song Contest for a first prize of a professional recording session.

A state organization, Parents Too Soon, dedicated to teaching teens to handle teenage sex and stay in school, is the sponsor of the contest in which Mattson has reached the final stage out of 38 contestants.

Robert Mattson

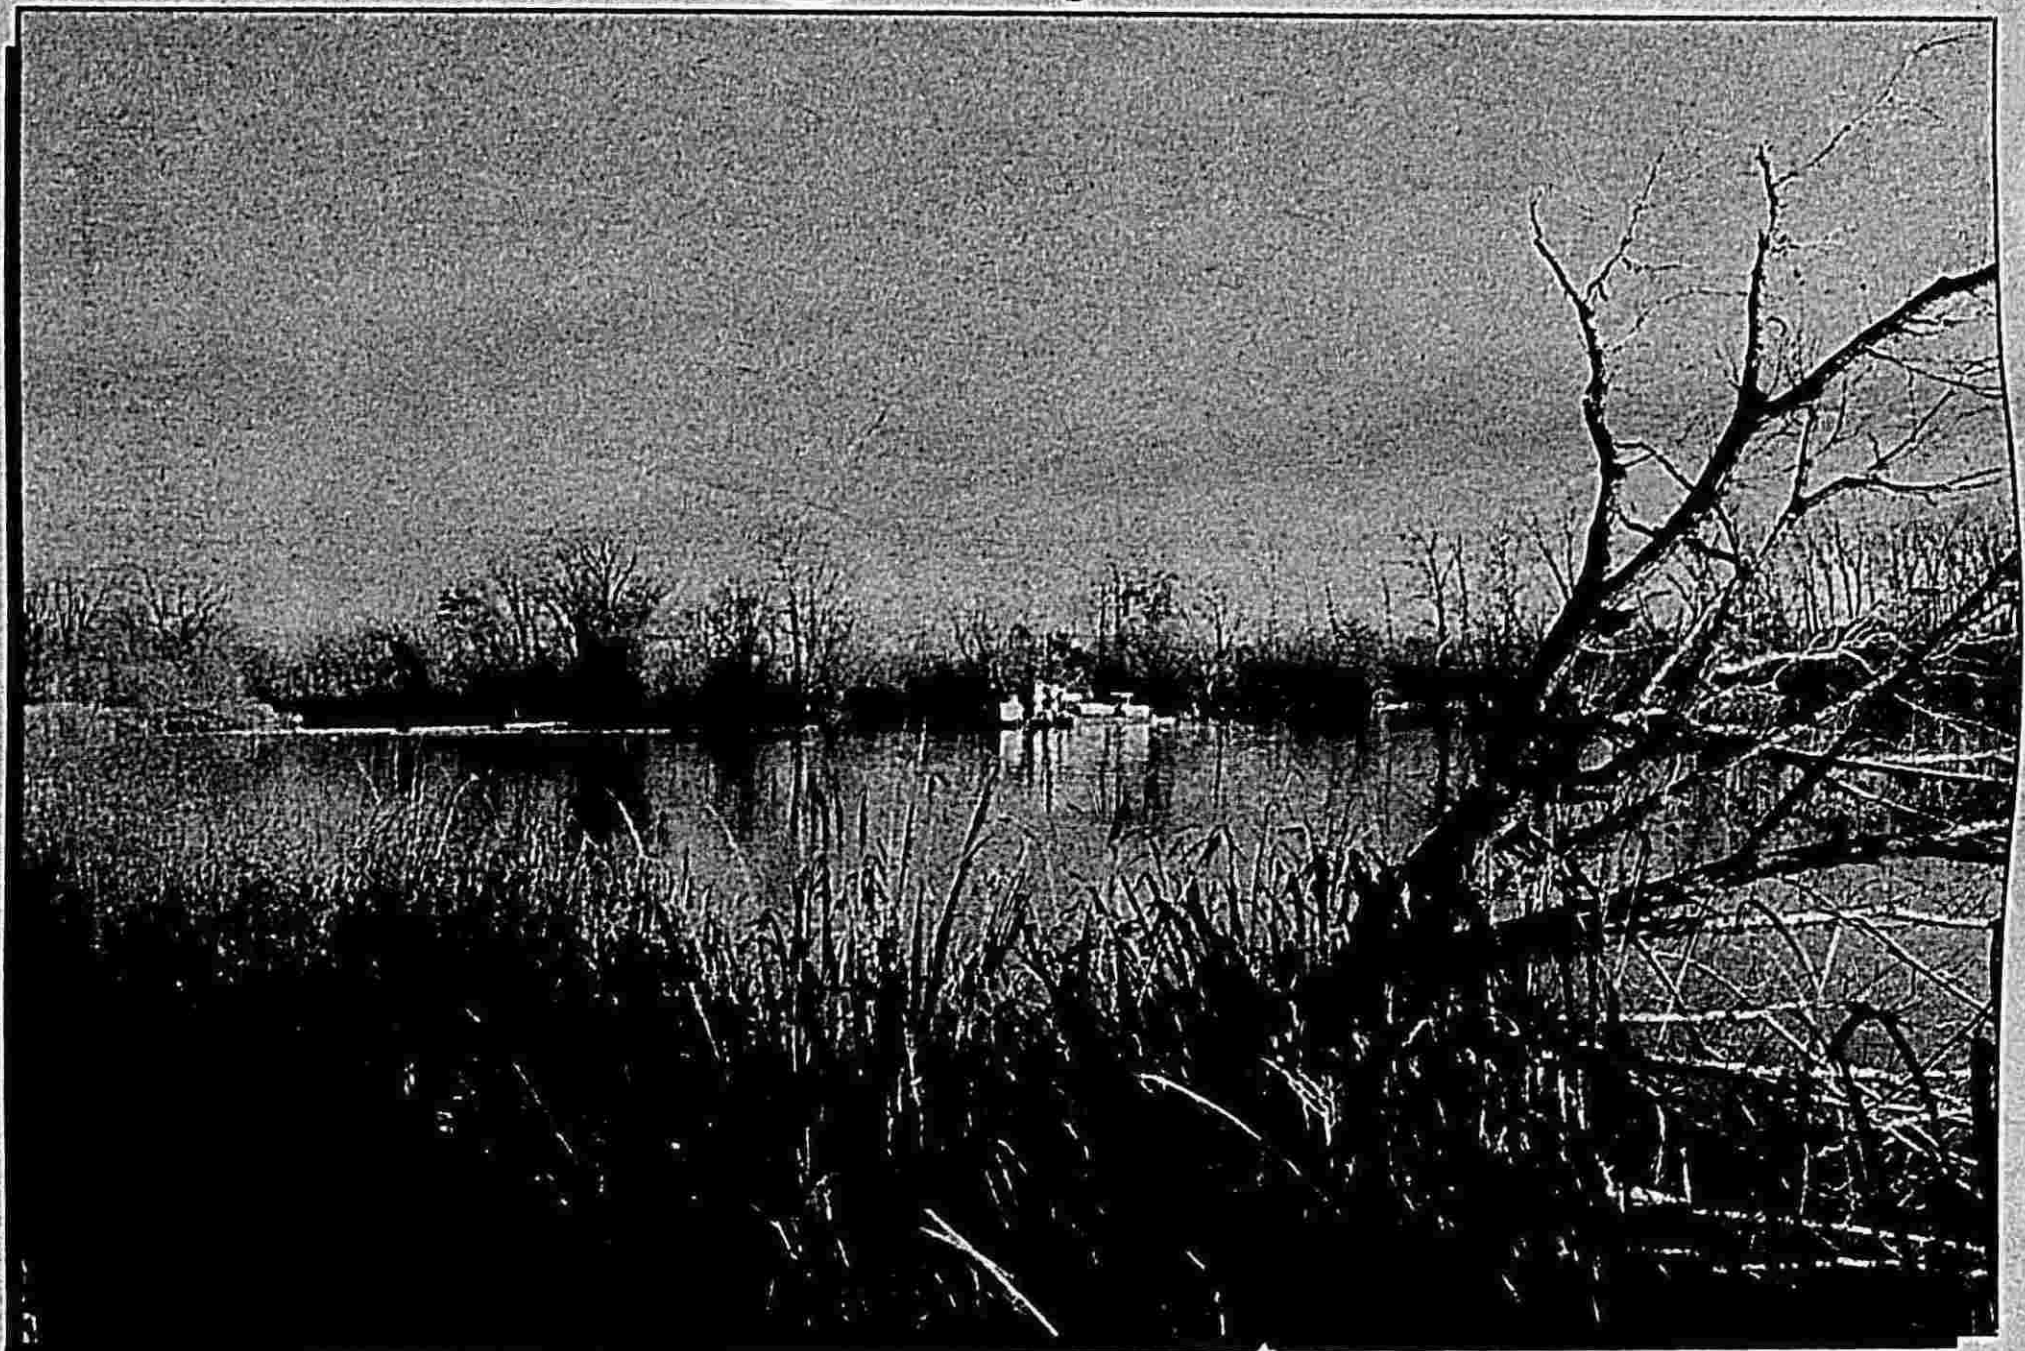

He will do the rap song he composed himself and he is putting together some backup music with the help of the musical background he gained as a band member at Antioch High School.

Celebrities will be judging the contest, one of which will be Chicago Bear running back Matt Suhey, and music and teen experts.

Mattson's "rap" song has been getting heavy play locally on radio stations WKRS and WXLC and the other day shoppers at Lakehurst were treated to it over the sound system.

Cleaning up the Chain

Chain O'Lakes Waterway Management Agency is already getting good use from dredge which was put into service in November. It is hard at work in Grass Lake and will remain there until weather makes it impractical. During winter it will be used in lower Fox River and will be stored in OMC facilities when bitter cold comes. Dredging will be perpetual project in Chain and is expected to remove much silt and muck, making for cleaner water recreation all year round.—Photo by John Doetsch

Jaycees set breakfast with Santa

The Antioch Jaycees will be sponsoring "Breakfast with Santa" on Dec. 20. Breakfast hours will be 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Scout House on Main Street in Antioch.

Santa and some of his elves will be there to visit with Antioch children during the duration of the breakfast. Donations for the pancake and sausage breakfast will be $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

For more information about the Jaycees, call president John Gerhardt at (312) 356-5926.

Another holiday program the Jaycees are involved in is having Santa make personal telephone calls from the North Pole to area children who have turned in the form given them at school and returned it by Dec. 14.

Grass Lake to get into 'The Spirit of Christmas'

Grass Lake School will show its Christmas spirit with its annual Christmas program on Wednesday, Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. in the gym of the school.

This year's program is under the direction of Neal Smith and is entitled "The Spirit of Christmas."

Highlights of this year's program will be a play by Ruth Robert called "What Shall We Do For a Christmas Play This Year?" presented by the fourth grade class.

The intermediate chorus will sing "It's Beginning to Look a Lot Like Christmas," "Let There Be Peace of Earth" and more.

"Here We Come A-Wassailing" and "Little Drummer Boy" will be performed by the fifth grade, complete with a real drummer boy.

Included in the program will be the kindergarten and first grades, the second and third grades, and the beginning band to perform more of their favorite Christmas songs.

The finale of this year's program will be the intermediate band, advanced band, all grades and audience joining in for "A Christmas Medley."

Grass Lake School is located at 26177 Grass Lake Rd. in Antioch. For more information regarding the concert call (312) 395-1550.

Antioch, Stevenson aiming to recover from tourneys

Two teams hoping that Thanksgiving will be quickly forgotten will clash when Antioch and Stevenson meet Dec. 4. The game at Antioch, North Suburban Conference openers for both teams, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The host Sequoits are coming off a Rockford tournament which saw Antioch lose all three games. Stevenson won the opener at Glenbrook South but lost to Lake Zurich and Glenbrook South.

"Stevenson has a big center in Rob Anderson and they have good shooting guards. We hope to continue our strong defensive effort," Antioch coach Don Zeman said of the Patriots.

Antioch has an Anderson as well - and Paul is also 6-6. Zeman praised Anderson and 6-3 forward Greg Gunther's rebounding efforts for the three games in Rockford.

The Patriots used eight or nine players in each of the three games at Glenbrook South, coach George Katich said. Like Antioch, Stevenson knows it will have to tighten up defensively. They surrendered at least 60 points in each of the three games in Glenview.

The Sequoits found their offense to be quite offensive to their chances of winning in Rockford.

Grant starts NWSC season

Grant basketball coach Tom Maple likes his team's role going into the Northwest Suburban Conference season opener at Marengo Dec. 4.

The Bulldogs are traveling west not as the favorite, but as the underdog.

"Marengo is very consistent in what they do. I like the idea of going in there in the first conference game as the underdog," Maple said.

The host Indians come into the contest as pre-season favorites to dispose of the Bulldogs as new NWSC champions. Coach Bill Barry's team finished third in Sycamore's Thanksgiving tournament.

"We'll have to have a real good game to beat them," Maple said of Marengo.

Grant, an inexperienced team, won two of three games at Harvard's tournament to start the season. "Going in, I thought the tournament did not have a real standout team and we had a chance to contend for the title. The team gained a lot of confidence. The defense got better each game and they made progress," Maple said.

They lost to Auburn 76-49, to Harlem, 72-51 and to Rockford West, 58-33.

"Mostly poor shooting. We never shot better than 32 percent," Zeman said when asked what cost Antioch the most.

Against Harlem, Antioch trailed by just one point, 14-13 before Harlem took over with an 18-9 spree in the second quarter. Against Rockford West, the Sequoits were once again done in by a poor second quarter. After trailing 9-7 after one, the Sequoits managed just four second-quarter points. West then put the game away with an 18-8 third quarter advantage.

"We were only two-of-18 shooting in the second quarter. We had opportunities to take the lead but we did not take advantage of it," Zeman said.

Free-throw shooting hurt Antioch throughout the meet but especially against West. Antioch did not shoot a free-throw in the first half while West was building up a lead. West finished with 16 free-throw tries to Antioch's five and outscored Antioch 10-2 in that department.

Stevenson's season-opener saw a strong first quarter carry the Pats through in a 70-61 win over Prosser. Stevenson led 18-10 after one and while Prosser won two of the three quarters after that, the early lead was enough.

Balanced scoring was the order of the day. Craig Holder led the Pats with 19 points and Cleveland Tyson had 15. Anderson and Tyrone Oliber each had 10.

The Patriots continued their tendency for a fast start against Lake Zurich. Stevenson led 22-14 after one but saw that lead evaporate in the second quarter. A 25-12 Bears run gave Lake Zurich a 39-34 halftime lead. Fourth quarter free-throws then made the difference.

Panthers prepare for own meet after NWSC opener

Round Lake will be hosting a wrestling tournament Dec. 5. Action gets underway at 9 a.m. in the 15th annual tournament. The semi-finals and wrestlebacks will start at about 11:30 a.m. and the finals at 2 p.m.

The day before, all Northwest Suburban Conference wrestling teams will be starting league seasons with the Panthers hosting Wauconda. The first match Dec. 4 begins at 6 p.m.

Last week, Round Lake opened its wrestling season by beating Lake Forest 35-24 but losing to Waukegan

West in a squeaker, 29-28 in dual meet action.

Double winners for the Panthers were Mike Pratt by a forfeit and a fall, Jeff Harvey by a technical fall against Waukegan West and a fall against Lake Forest, and Dave Minjares winning by counts of 15-2 and 10-2. Jerry Chapman won 10-5 against Waukegan West and 5-2 over Lake Forest. Buddy Estes won by default against Waukegan West and won 3-1 over Lake Forest.

Brian Rainer and Rigo Cordova both won one match for the Panthers. Rich Maja and Rainer had ties.

Pressure-minded Mustangs aim to halt Fenton in NSC opener

The difference between practice and actual game situations sometimes can be surprising. Just ask Mundelein basketball coach Dennis Kessel.

"These kids have made a lot of progress in a week," Kessel said after his team finished 1-2 in its own Thanksgiving tournament.

With the exception of the second half of a 90-46 loss to eventual tourney champ Fremd, the Mustangs played solid basketball throughout the meet. Scouts will be telling head coaches throughout the North Suburban Conference that to beat Mundelein, you better find a way to stop this fast-break, pressure oriented team.

"The kids are scrappy and they just play hard. I feel the kids played well in the tournament," Kessel said.

J. T. Mathwig, the only starter off last year's team, scored 13 points in the first two games each before scoring 24 against Carmel. Mundelein opened the season with a 59-47 win over Highland Park, lost to Fremd and were edged 56-54 by crosstown rival Carmel.

Mundelein opens the NSC portion of the schedule at Fenton Dec. 4.

In addition to Mathwig, guard Doug Sundell and center Tim Ulrich both asserted themselves as key Mundelein players.

"I did not know what to expect," Kessel said of the season opener.

The hosts started to brake this one open in the second quarter. They extended a 13-9 lead after one to 24-13 when Mathwig hit two free throws. The lead grew to 12 by the middle of the third quarter. Two baskets by Mathwig gave the Mustangs a 37-25 lead.

After a Highland Park rally trimmed the margin to 39-32 after three, the Mustangs' press played havoc with the Little Giants. By the middle of the final quarter, a bucket by Ulrich and two more free throws by Sundell gave MHS a 16-point cushion.

Sundell had 20 points, including three three-pointers, to lead the Mustangs.

Mundelein's momentum carried over into the early stages of the Fremd contest.

A three-pointer by Sundell brought Mundelein to within one at 14-13 in the first quarter. Fremd seemed to be allowing Mundelein to do what it does best—run its transition game.

The Vikings used their superior height to take control in the second quarter. Fremd opened a seven-point lead but a Jeff Fuller hoop brought MHS to within three. Fremd reopened its margin in the latter stages and led 38-31 at the half.

When Fuller tipped home a missed shot for Mundelein to start the second half, things looked encouraging for the Mundelein faithful.

But then disaster struck.

Six Mundelein turnovers coupled with four baskets by George Poorman and the next they were down 48-33.

Warren, Libertyville to clash in key wrestling dual contest

North Suburban Conference wrestling fans looking for a sneak preview at who will be the early favorite may do well to travel to Warren Twp. High School Dec. 4.

That's when Libertyville and Warren will be squaring off in a dual meet. Libertyville comes in as a perennial NSC favorite, but Warren knocked off the Wildcats in a late-season dual match last winter.

"The Libertyville match is all I'm worried about now," Warren coach Mark Tiffany said.

The Blue Devils appear to be in good shape for the early season showdown. Warren has won its first three dual matches for the season and finished fifth last week at the tough Wheaton Central tournament.

In duals, Warren beat Grayslake and Lake Zurich by 45-15 margins and edged Cary-Grove 32-24.

At Wheaton Central, the Blue Devils finished with 84 and one-half points. The highlight came when Kevin Sullivan won the 98-pound weight class title. Sullivan won the first match 17-1 on a technical fall and won the second 16-0. He then beat Hoffman Estates's Mike Gorman 4-3 in the finals.

Although such familiar names as Jeff Chumbley at 126 pounds, heavyweight Eric Divilbiss and 167 pounder John Frecking are no longer part of the Blue Devil lineup, this year's squad is once again stressing the team aspect of wrestling.

"We lost some pretty good kids and this year's team is a little different. But like last year's team, we don't have a superstar and everyone will have to contribute. We have solid kids at all the weight classes," Tiffany said.

Sullivan is 3-0 at 98 pounds and others who have made their marks by winning five of six matches are Mike Frecking at 145, Scott Lindstrom at 185 and Conrad Divilbiss at heavyweight.

As far as the overall outlook of the NSC, Tiffany sees no weak sisters. Fenton and Antioch, along with Stevenson, should contend by tradition.

In the meet against non-league foe Lake Zurich, Warren's Mike Hansen won at 98 pounds by forfeit. Tony Salamone decisioned Javier Venegas 10-7 at 112 and Ken Chumbley won by decision at 119.

Lake Zurich won the next three classes.

Frecking and Eric Granning won by pins at 145 and 155. Dave Geertz won by defeat at 167 and Lindstrom won by forfeit at 185.

Divilbiss won by a 4-1 decision over Dale Pijbt at heavyweight.

Church women
set bake sale

Antioch's St. Peter Council of Catholic Women will sponsor a Christmas Cookie Bake Sale in the church hall on Saturday, Dec. 12 after the 5:30 p.m. Mass and on Sunday, Dec. 13, after all the Masses.

All home baked cookies will be sold packaged or by the pound. Proceeds from the sale will be given to St. Peter Church.

Pat Kenyon is chairlady of this fund raiser. A mini-Christmas Bazaar will be held in conjunction with the bake sale. This will be a good time to buy those last minute gifts for family, friends, hostess gifts, nursing home residents, etc. This sale is open to the public.

Set Women's Club luncheon on Dec. 7

The annual Christmas Luncheon of the Antioch Women's Club will be held Monday, Dec. 7, at Hunter Country Club in Richmond.

Cocktails will be served at 11 a.m., with lunch at noon.

The program will feature an "Alpine Festival" by Heide Siewert. Guests are welcome.

Program chairladies are Gen Mularki and Beverly Sorensen.

Pioneer program

Fourth and fifth graders from Emmons School and fifth graders from Grass Lake School participate in Pioneer Day Program at Camp Henry Horner. Students and adults cook a complete pioneer meal of stew, corn bread, carmel corn and applesauce, over a camp fire. Other activities of the program included making candles, building shelters and carding and spinning wool.

Sequoit wrestlers lose 3

A crowd of over 350 people turned out to watch Antioch wrestlers face Conant in the first meet of the season.

Conant, as always, proved to be a tough opponent, and won the meet at varsity, junior and freshman levels. With 12 matches, varsity wrestlers won four and tied one. The final score was 37-14.

Coach Ted DeRousse said Antioch had some younger, more inexperienced wrestlers who didn't match up well with the opposition. Conant has one of the top teams in the state, and DeRousse said, "We like to test our mettle against the best."

Junior Varsity I lost, 52-9, as did Junior Varsity II, 60-12. Coach Jeff Moxley also cited inexperience as one of the biggest factors, with some of the wrestlers participating in their first matches ever.

The freshman team fared the best, barely losing in a cliffhanger, 35-33. Coach Anderson was very pleased with the way his team wrestled. He said they need to concentrate on the basics, as there were some fundamental errors that cost them the meet. All three coaches felt the wrestlers will improve with each match.

The next home meet was scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 3, with the Sequoits hosting Zion-Benton at freshman, junior varsity and varsity levels.

Telecare, Outreach want more names to call on

When the Chain O'Lakes Senior Services disbanded, because of lack of funds, the Community Telecare Service, being operated out of the United Methodist Church of Antioch, continued the check by phone services with volunteer help.

This is the service wherein volunteers make requested telephone calls to seniors at home on a daily basis to check with them and see how things are and if they are in need of anything.

The area elderly, blind and those seniors that have other handicaps, who have solicited the service, are at the present time being called by 10 volunteers.

According to Norma Meierdirck, coordinator of the telecare services, the volunteers have been working with the list that the Chain O'Lakes group was using.

"There may be many other seniors who would like the service but they do not know about it or they don't know how to go about receiving it," she said.

Anyone who would like to be on the Telecare list can call (312) 395-9098 on weekdays from 9 to 11 a.m.

Children of elderly parents living alone, who would like their parents checked on daily, can also enlist the service.

Donations are always welcome. Both of these services are operating in space donated by the United Methodist Church of Antioch on Main St., and through funds donated by the State Bank of Antioch, the Village of Antioch, the Antioch Rotary Club, and the Antioch Woman's Club.

Football replace athletes

When the State Bank of Antioch found out that members of the Chicago Bears could not make weekend appearances during season, plans to have a Bear or two at the bank sponsored Weekend Video Sportsbar at St.

Peters "Footlights" were snafued.

But Bears' Coach Mike Ditka offered to personally sign two NFL footballs donated by the bank to be raffled off to raise money for St.

Peters in lieu of the personal appearances.

Over $500 was raised through the raffle. Winners of the two footballs were Shirley Gutowski and Charlie Hope.

How are you today?

Downtown lights putting Antioch in holiday mood

by CAROLYN HAMMOND
(312)395-6081

Only 20 more days until Christmas. Are you in the holiday mood yet? Don't the white-lit trees in downtown Antioch look pretty? They'll be gorgeous when the snow falls. Oops that's a dirty word - snow! Anyway, it's a real classy effect.

weight League helmets due to the great support from the Antioch community. Many thanks to all who contributed.

ACHS wrestlers got their first taste of this year's competition as they took on Conant, one of the top rated teams in the state. Results: varsity lost, 37 to 14, J.V. 1 lost, 52 to 9, J.V. 2 lost, 60 to 12, and freshman

Come on out and hear our youngsters do us proud.

The students at Antioch Lower Grade School really got into it (literally) as they studied the voyage of the Mayflower this year.

Librarian Aileen Biel gave them an idea of how conditions really were for the 101 passengers as she laid out the 25 by 50 foot area on the library floor, set out bunk spaces, and had the classes try to fit in them. Bet the kids really appreciated all their large beds and bedrooms after that!

Not to be left behind are the eighth grade students at Antioch Upper Grade School. As part of their studies in industrial technology, they created a small company called Mass Production Ideas Inc. The students researched a coat rack, created fixtures and jigs to mass produce it, created an assembly line on paper, and then transformed the plans into an actual production line.

Nearly 125 coat racks were produced in less than five working days. The students then marketed and sold them with sales topping their highest expectations. Wow! We have got some future entrepreneurs here! Next they will study robotics. Don't worry about our schools, folks.

lost, 33 to 35. Take heart though, this will improve as the experienced ACHS wrestlers get some more matches behind them and compete in conference. Good luck!

Good news from W.C. Petty School... "Student of the Month" awards for "outstanding spelling" were recently presented at a school recognition assembly to: Mike Butts, Melissa Larson, first grade; Shawn Hansen, Angie Polson, Mike Harrison, second grade; Kristy Miedema, Jeanne Enslow-Klar, third grade; Billy Johnson, Jason Pritchard, Melisa Harrison, fourth grade; and Andy Faltynek, Jennifer Hovey, Brad Erdmann, Merrill Schaps, fifth grade.

Chris Bolin, music teacher at Antioch Grade School, reports that she will be taking a group of singers to perform at Lakehurst Mall on Dec. 8.

Nice job!

Another classy group in Antioch - PM'L wants you to know that there's only one more weekend of performances of "Pure As the Driven Snow". "It's real family entertainment...a frothy, lighthearted thing", says PM'L spokesperson Aileen Biel. curtain time is 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 4 and Saturday, Dec. 5. For reservations call the ticket line at (312)395-3055.

At the annual Viking Football Awards Night held Nov. 24, Steve Wapon, retiring after 20 years of coaching the ACHS Sequoits, was presented with a plaque as "Viking Man of the Year" for his outstanding service and help to the Viking organization.

Viking President Nick Pappadakis also reports that the organization had a successful campaign to replace the Feather-

Letter To The Editor

Opposition

Editor:
This is a letter of opposition to the proposed leveling of Dist. 34 Grade Schools in Antioch.

In his most recent letter to the parents of Dist. 34 school children, our superintendent, Dr. Skidmore, stated that leveling was desirable due to the overcrowding at the Lower Grade.

At a meeting with Dr. Skidmore, I was led to believe that leveling was not desirable because of overcrowding or economics, but because it is the "wave of the future".

Emphasis was placed on the ability to categorize our children into slow, medium, and high learning groups.

I believe that labeling our children at such a young age only benefits the high learners and could have a devastating effect on children placed in a "less desirable" category.

If Dr. Skidmore's true concern was for the crowded situation at the Lower Grade, why is he in favor of disrupting hundreds of families when the outcome will not provide significantly lower class sizes at the Lower Grade anyway?

There are no studies available to tell us the long term, effect of leveling on young children. What will happen to our young children when they are separated from siblings and transferred to a new school every two years?

How will they handle the chaos and stress at home caused by leveling. Heaven help all of us with three or more children!

We are told young children need stability, yet this plan suggests anything but stability for them.

A committee has been formed to investigate the leveling concept. It is my opinion that this is only a formality to appease the parents and that the decision in favor of leveling has already been made.

I urge all Dist. 34 parents to attend school board meetings and contact school board officials to voice your concern on this issue.

Girl Scouts to 'circle' for needy

Registered Girl Scouts from Antioch, Lake Villa, Lindenhurst and Millburn are invited to attend a "Circle of Warmth" from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 13.

The event will be held at the Millburn Congregational United Church of Christ, located on the corner of Grass Lake Rd. and Rte. 45. This is an opportunity for Girl Scouts to help less fortunate families in the local area enjoy Christmas.

Each girl should bring a pair of mittens and two Christmas tree ornaments. One ornament should be wrapped to exchange with another Girl Scout, and the other ornament will be hung on the tree.

The decorated Christmas trees and gifts will be given to needy families. A "Scouts Own" on giving will highlight the festivities.

People may want library, but they nix bond raise

Voters in Nippersink Public Library Dist. defeated the proposal to raise $850,000 in bonds to build a new building by a 384-572 margin. They also voted down an eight cents per $100 increase in the operating tax rate by 614-345.

According to Diane Benesch, library board president, the board put before the voters a building program that would have best served the public. The program had been developed after two years of consultation with library experts, building consultants, architects, financial consultants, state officials and public meetings.

The final plan was specifically designed to meet the needs of the district and provide an excellent level of library service. The upper level met state requirements for space and handicapped accessibility. The lower level would have allowed for immediate community use by providing meeting rooms at no cost to the public.

It would have allowed for expansion as the district's population continues its rapid increase. The board took advantage of available financial assistance by applying for state grant money that could have lowered construction costs of the proposed building to under $500,000.

In the next few weeks the board will be looking at what appears to be a difference between the community's expectations for library service and the program of library service developed by the board.

The board will have to decide if these services should be continued in their present form. The size of the collection and proper housing for it will also be discussed.

Benesch stated, "We hope that during this time all concerned parties will represent themselves openly and in a manner that is consistent with the welfare of the community."

The library board will be interested in comments from district residents on such issues as new building construction, library services, meeting new state accessibility requirements, cost of rental, etc. Board meetings are the second Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. They are held at the library at 10308 Main St. in Richmond.

"There is no question in our minds that people in our district want a new library building," said Benesch.

NICASA promotes safe celebration

With the holiday season approaching, the Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA) is promoting a "Drive Safely Holiday."

With this in mind, the third of the "First Mondays" monthly educational series offered by NICASA is titled, "Drinking, Driving: Tolls and Tears."

The film depicts the devastating aftermath of drunk driving accidents for the drivers as well as the victims and their families. It will be shown at 6 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 7, at NICASA's main office, 113 Greenwood, Waukegan. The program is free and open to the public.

"Every year, 26,000 Americans die and 1.5 million are injured by drunk drivers," said Judy H. Fried, executive director of NICASA. "More than 11 million families have seen a member killed or seriously injured by a drunk driver in the past 10 years."

Fried offers these tips for a safe holiday season:

1. Have a designated driver, someone who has agreed to not drink that evening.

2. Drink no more than the body can effectively metabolize and eliminate effectively, which is one beer or mixed drink, per hour.

3. Serve or eat food when drinking, as it slows the rate of alcohol absorption.

4. Don't push alcohol at holiday parties.

5. Don't make drinking the focus of party activities.

"Following these tips will make the holiday safer for you, your family and friends," said Fried.

TOI re-elects local officials

Two Lake County officials were re-elected to positions in the Township Officials of Illinois (TOI) at its 80th Annual Educational Conference in Springfield in November.

Barbar Behm, clerk, Fremont Twp., was re-elected second vice president of the TOI.

TOI Executive Director George H. Miller said, "Barbara has provided this association with excellent leadership during the past year. She has been an active, respected official in her township for some time."

Richard C. Harland, clerk, Antioch Twp., was re-elected as a member of the board of directors.

"Richard has been an active respected official in his township," Miller said. "I am personally gratified that he will be a contributing member of the board of directors for the next year."

The Association represents the interests of nearly 12,000 elected township officials in Springfield and Washington, D.C. In addition, it serves as an information clearing house for state and federal legislators and agencies and TOI member townships.

The organization annually sponsors training seminars and programs which keep its members abreast of changes in the laws governing townships and prepares them to better meet their duties and responsibilities.

Helping battered women

Both the dark side of life and the bright side of life as exemplified by the spirit of giving at Christmastime are embodied in the activities of A Safe Place/Lake County Crisis Center, which provides shelter for victims of domestic violence and counseling for battered women.

The seven-and-a-half-year-old agency is capping its busiest year yet with an appeal for food and household goods for operation of its shelter in Waukegan, which provides shelter for up to two dozen women per month and approximately the same number of children. Even though the very nature of the center is a Yuletide incongruity, A Safe Place has a Christmas wish list and concerned persons are urged to contribute by calling (312) 249-4450.

Seventeen full-time staff members and a host of volunteers are proud that A Safe Place has reached new heights of public service in 1987. Besides an ongoing counseling program, operation of the shelter and coordination of support groups, A Safe Place has just established its second satellite center for battered women in Vernon Hills to join its other outreach facility in Round Lake. More than ever, the Crisis Center is a true county-wide organization.

One of the encouraging signs of the past year, according to Executive Director Barbara Bergard, is growing awareness on the part of local police departments of the facilities and capabilities of A Safe Place. Goal of the Crisis Center is to get police officers to get women and children involved in domestic violence in touch with A Safe Place as soon as possible whether or not they are in need of shelter.

A woman is beaten in the United States every 18 seconds. That's 4,800 beatings each day. Some of them occur in your neighborhood. It is odd that the average citizen is almost totally unaware of the extent of domestic violence in our community. A Safe Place/Lake County Crisis Center is operating on an annual budget of $500,000 to care for victims and help them find a new meaning in life. The agency is performing admirably and deserving of enthusiastic support.

Where danger lurks

If railroads had their way, every motorist would come to a complete stop at a railroad crossing, roll down the window, look both ways, then listen for an approaching train before proceeding carefully across the rail crossing.

If the motoring public had its way, every train would come to a complete stop for each road crossing to let traffic pass.

Single homes mean children

The lexicon of the developer is replete with all sorts of euphemisms for multi-family housing—coach houses, manor homes, villas, garden homes, townhomes, condominiums, quads, and so forth.

All of these colorful and appealing appellations so descriptive of suburban lifestyles add up to little impact on school enrollments. For all the hand-wringing and consternation expressed about growth and development, it's still the single family, detached home that is the incubator for school children.

This was confirmed in unequivocal terms by a study conducted by Warren Twp. High School on the impact of growth and development on future enrollments. Most of the school's future enrollment growth will be coming from the 38 active subdivisions now in various stages of development within Warren's boundaries. Warren enrollment will climb to about 1,850 from the 1,555 with current building.

Put another way, parents, at least in our corner of the world, still are opting for the traditional American single family home in which to raise children.

It's undeniable: Chicago's hold inescapable

by BILL SCHROEDER

"What do you think about our mayor?"

The man on the other side of the counter was being engaging and conversational, but his question struck me as being odd. My home is in an unincorporated area. I don't have "a mayor." As a newspaperman, I know a lot of mayors, most of them on a first-name basis. "Our mayor?" What on earth was the gentleman about to wait on me talking about? Obviously, I looked puzzled—and I showed it.

"Harold Washington," the businessman replied. "He's had a heart attack and it doesn't look like he'll live."

"Oh, Harold Washington," I repeated rhetorically. "I'll be darned. Harold Washington. Well, he's not my mayor."

The man across the counter looked stunned—and hurt. Embarrassed at my abruptness, he stammered, "Well, you know. He's the mayor. He's sort of our mayor." Bringing up business at this point was a welcome relief.

I remained irritated by the experience until encountering similar reactions to the death of the mayor of Chicago later in the day and the next day. Time and again, people in our suburban area 50 or so miles away from Chicago were touched and genuinely grieved by the death of Mayor Washington of Chicago.

Why?

I began to reflect on the attachment of people around here for the mayor of Chicago, whomever he or she might be. The interest, the concern, the attraction. I recalled the comment I've encountered almost every time taking a trip to a distant part of the nation and explaining, when asked, that home is a "small town north of Chicago."

The typical reply goes something like this: "Boy, you've sure got some mayor there."

Letters Invited

Letters to the editor are welcome. They should be on topics of general interest, approximately 250 words or less. All letters must be signed, and contain home address and telephone numbers. The editor reserves the right to condense all letters.

What's going on here?

After thinking about it, the connection and the attraction has to be tied up in the fact that the mayor of Chicago is instantly recognized around the world. The mayor of Chicago is a household word in more American households than the mayor of any other American city. In our locality, we relate to the mayor of Chicago because of media exposure. We identify with the mayor of Chicago because anyone elected to lead Chicago has to have a forceful personality. And—this may be the most important point of all—all of us have a little bit of Chicago in our blood, our hearts and our minds. He is our mayor, "sort of," as the man behind the counter struggled to explain.

Even though Chicago—thank heaven—is an hour away, it's still part of our daily lives in so many ways. Business, politics, entertainment center around Chicago. My first recollection of taking a trip anywhere was to Chicago. One of my grandparents was born in Chicago. I took a train to Chicago on my first trip away from home. Our favorite teams are in Chicago. My wife worked in an office in Chicago before our marriage. One of our daughters works in Chicago today. Chicago literally is in our blood, our hearts and our minds. You and me.

Let's not judge whether this is good or bad. It's just a fact of life. I reacted too harshly to the gentleman's efforts to be engaging and conversational. The attachment to Chicago, both real and imagined, is here to stay. The fact can't be denied and it's part of us—all of us.

It's time for court to rule on Liberty Lakes

LAST JULY, THE Illinois Supreme Court put Liberty Lakes appeal on an expedited basis. supposedly, a decision was to be made quickly on whether it could go forward or not.

Now, five monthly deadlines have come and gone and the supreme court has still announced no decision.

Whichever way the justices decide, it is important that they decide soon. Villages which surround the sprawling, proposed village of Liberty Lakes need to be able to know whether they can forward with development plans or not. The proposed village would cover close consideration. It will undoubtedly set precedent throughout the state. But five months is long enough to weigh the merits. I hope the justices do not let the December deadline pass without making a decision.

WAUCONDA TWP. SUP. and Dist. 6 County Board member Jerry Beyer has come out swinging at his Dist. 6 colleagues. A few weeks ago, Dist. 6 Reps. Bruce Hansen, John Reindl and C. Richard Anderson broke a big story about dangerous toxic wastes leaching up through the soil in Wauconda. Channel 2 News was out and the story was heavily covered by every newspaper in the region.

It is no secret that the Wauconda dump is on the superfund clean-up list. There is indeed a lot of toxic waste there. But the experts, including the Lake County Health Dept., maintain that there is no immediate danger. We all know that experts can be wrong, but I wonder if the three board members would have been quite as enthusiastic had there been no cameras or media representatives at the site.

In the absence of some compelling evidence to suggest that there is some danger at the site that has previously been undiscovered, I question the responsibility of creating a scare where it is not necessary.

Beyer called Hansen a "political arsonist." I don't know that I would go that far, but I know that Hansen does have a nose for media attention. Some of his colleagues have suggested that he can smell a reporter a mile away.

THE RACE FOR two full circuit court judicial seats has Lake County lawyers pulling their hair out. All the candidates so far are sitting associate judges.

Don't kid yourself. Bob Neal and Jay

Ukena could each learn something about politics from these judges. Judges are not supposed to engage in any kind of political activity or even to attend political events unless they are personally running for office.

Until two weeks ago, it was not certain whether the two judges would be appointed or an election held. The ink wasn't dry on the legislation in Springfield before petitions were signed, filed and stationery printed up.

Hartigan offers tips for shopping by mail

Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan warns shoppers on avoiding pitfalls that can take the joy out of the holiday season.

"Unfortunately, there are quick buck operators ready to snare the unwary," Hartigan said. "They try to take advantage of the good will that decent citizens share in the holiday season."

"There is an answer: An alert and informed citizenry."

Hartigan instructed the consumer fraud division of the Attorney General's Office to review the experience of more than 30,000 complaints during the past year to prepare a list of the most frequently encountered problems.

He said that although shopping by mail is convenient, and saves time and energy, it is also a major source of consumer complaints. This year alone, the Attorney General's office has received over 1,200 complaints about mail orders.

Hartigan offers these precautions for avoiding problems with mail orders:

1. Make sure the product offered is what you want. Don't be fooled by pictures and misleading descriptions. If possible, investigate the claims of the seller to be sure the product does what

These guys hit the ground running.

As for the lawyers, it is very difficult to remain neutral when these are the people who are going to decide your cases.

It will be interesting to see what the bar polls say about each of the candidates. I suspect that people take a jaded view of bar polls these days, particularly since all the judges convicted in the Greylord scandal received favorable polls.

the ads say.

2. Check the date the seller promises to deliver or ship the product, and be sure to order in plenty of time for holiday delivery.

3. Know what the seller's policy is on returns.

4. Complete the order form as directed. Incomplete or incorrect order forms can delay an order and could affect legal rights.

5. Keep a copy of the order and the original advertisement, together with a note of the seller's name and address and the date the order was sent.

6. Keep cancelled checks and charge account records so papers will be available to help resolve problems.

"It is also important to know your rights if a mail order fails to arrive on time, or arrive at all," Hartigan said.

The Federal Trade Commission has a rule which requires the seller to ship the order when promised, or, if no date is promised, the seller must ship no later than 30 days after the order is received.

To file a complaint, Chicago area residents should call the Attorney General's consumer fraud office at (312)917-3580.

nearly all the unincorporated area of Lake Villa Twp. and parts of Avon, Grant and Antioch Twp.

Round Lake Beach, Round Lake Heights, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst are villages which cannot make final decisions on future projects until a decision is made on Liberty Lakes.

Supporters of the project need an answer, as well. If the justices decide in favor of supporters, it does not mean that Liberty Lakes becomes a reality, only that there can be an election to determine whether it can incorporate. Supporters need to know if there will be such an election and when it will be held so they can go forward with campaign plans.

This is certainly a case that deserves

Small town medical care becomes endangered species

The rural or small town physician is, under present federal policy, becoming an endangered species.

For decades everyone living in a small town has noticed that when old Doc Brown retired or went to his reward it was unlikely that he would be replaced. The only one interested occasionally might be a small town boy returning to his roots after he finished his medical training. Or a doctor from the city, disillusioned by its tumult and crime rate, makes a radical change to the idyllic countryside.

Medical Musings

The medical schools always knew this and leaned over a bit to admit young people from the country with the expectation that they'd return there to practice. This never worked too well because with the new advances in equipment and techniques the young doctor very often doesn't go where he or she can't do what they spent years learning.

Historically, the government has favored giving incentives to the residents in family practice to make it more attractive. It was felt that a family practitioner would be more likely to locate in a small town. The drawbacks here turned out to be that, like other policies, there are periods of vacillating so that sometimes this policy is forgotten or weakened to save money. The enthusiasm among young doctors wanes too when they discover that after being trained to deliver babies, for example, they are barred from delivering babies by obstetricians in many hospitals. (They are going to court on that.)

In the small towns, the doctor's fate is linked to the welfare of the small town hospital. Medicare has applied the same stringent rules to all hospitals whatever the size. Their doctors aren't spared or shown special favors even though handicapped by lack of equipment or facilities.

The small hospitals have not been able to keep up so they (and their doctors) suffered a disproportionate amount of censure and punishment. This went to the extreme of stopping payment or barring them from treating Medicare or Medicaid patients. The result was the closing of many small town hospitals. The doctors and their patients then have no hospitals. This is tragic in a dire emergency. For regular care they must travel great distances.

The negatives that create this dilemma are the government-mandated diagnosis related groups (DRGs) that I've written about in these columns, loss of government support, and the inevitable need that sends patients to the larger city centers. If they can afford it, patients go that distance and the small hospitals are left with the poor or Medicaid patients so their income suffers.

Additional burdens are the incentives that HMOs, ambulatory care centers and large groups in the city can offer a young physician. With them he doesn't have to wait for patients. It doesn't take years to build a practice and they frequently pick up the costs of malpractice insurance.

There is the added fact that with the doctor bashing and loss of respect there has been a decrease in medical graduations by about 3 percent for the last two years.

If we take 20 minutes as reasonable time needed by patient or doctor to reach adequate facilities for care, then we are fast losing the battle. In Texas alone 57 hospitals have closed, predominantly in small towns. As one doctor expressed it, the biggest problem is isolation from peers, wives and professional association. Reading this man's opinion, I am also struck with the fact that with no hospital support much time is spent doing what the hospital used to do.

Musings. The government is belatedly addressing the problem. Dr. William Roper is head of Health Care Financing Administration, the group that nominally sets the fees for doctors. He has stated that some relief must be afforded the small town physician. He has also indicated that doctors should just get used to the fact that with the now established trend they will earn less money irrespective of the work they do.

Congress in both houses has caucuses for rural health which attempt to persuade the members to grant more favorable Medicare reimbursement to rural doctors. They have got to the point where a special office has been established in Social Security.

When first I started to inquire how the amount paid hospitals and doctors was determined, I was told 10 bureaus were involved, "but sometimes there were two more." If another bureau is set up will this help?

Here is another arithmetic problem: What is the actual cost of medical care if you add the fee paid (or prepayment if it's an HMO), plus the subsidies for HMOs, plus the 12 bureaus, plus the money spent to persuade the patient where he should really go for his medical care? If these figures were made available to us and the sum added, we might find out why the cost of medical care keeps going up.

Antioch attorney announces bid for state's attorney

Robert J. Long, Antioch attorney, has announced his candidacy for the office of State's Attorney of Lake County. Long, a lifelong resident of Lake County, was born in Lake Villa. He received his grade and high school education in Libertyville. He graduated from the University of Illinois in 1976 and worked for two and a half years to save money for law school. He entered DePaul Law School in 1978 and received a Juris Doctor Degree in 1981. Since 1981, he has been licensed as an attorney in Illinois, and licensed to practise before the United States Federal

Robert J. Long

Dist. Courts in the Northern District of Wisconsin, Eastern District of Illinois, and Western District of Wisconsin. Before he received his law degree licensing, Long worked as a law clerk in a Chicago law firm which specialized in litigation and trial practice. After receiving his license, he continued to work for the firm, taking specialized training in trials and appeals. He then worked with another attorney in Libertyville and gained general practise skills, including a substantial amount of experience in police prosecutions for Lake Zurich and Hawthorn Woods.

In August of 1986, he opened his own law firm in Antioch, where he lives with his wife, Marcia, and toddler son, Michael.

Inglis seeking election to 2nd Dist. Appellate

Judge Lawrence D. "Larry" Inglis of Antioch has announced he will seek the Republican nomination for the "A" seat on the Appellate Court of the Second Judicial Dist. He is currently a judge of the same court, assigned to that position in 1986 by the Illinois Supreme Court.

Following a change in Illinois law, two judicial seats, which had been appointed positions, are now elected positions, and Judge Inglis will seek one of the two seats.

A graduate of the University of Illinois College of Law, Judge Inglis was in private practice for 20 years before winning election as a judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit in 1980. After being retained by voters in 1986, he was assigned by the Illinois Supreme Court to the Appellate Court.

The court hears appeals of cases from the 13 counties which make up the Second Judicial Dist., including Lake and McHenry.

A native of northern Illinois, Judge Inglis and his wife, Sandra, have been married for 30 years and have two grown children, Susan Jero and Andrew Inglis, M.D.

The primary election is scheduled for March 15, 1988.

Award winner

Don Drake, director of audio-visual and TV services at the College of Lake County, has been given a 'Special Services Award' from the Northern Illinois Learning Resources Cooperative. He received award at Illinois Council of Community College Administrators conference in Peoria. He is a resident of Twin Lakes, Wis.

'Superwoman'
finds success
in catering

by KAREN WILTBERGER

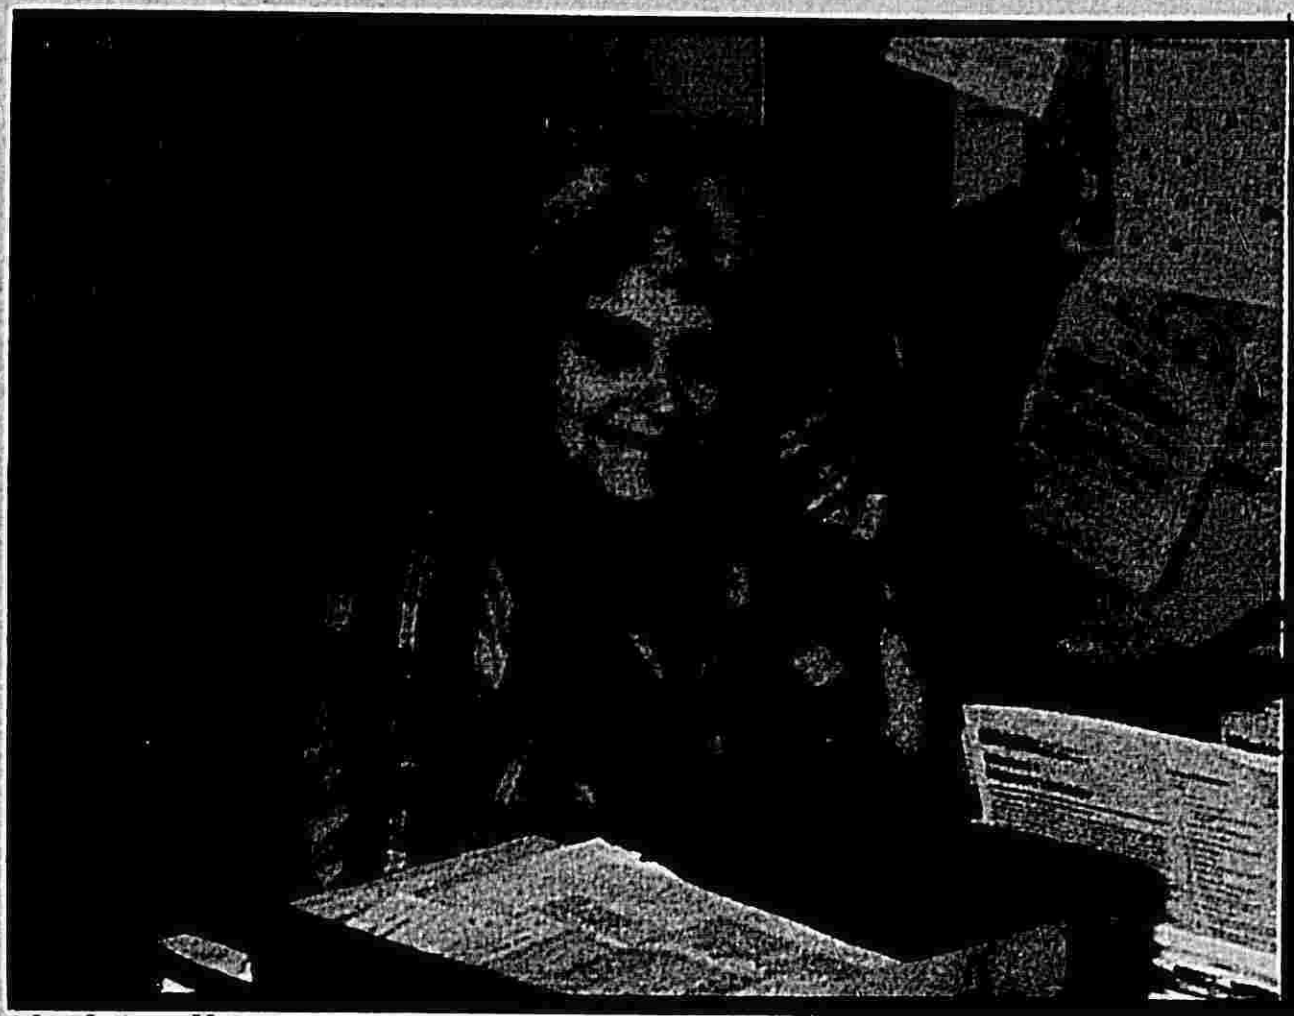

Linda Heller, owner of Heller Catering in North Chicago, became a "superwoman" long before the '80s term evolved to identify women who wear many hats.

As a young woman with four children Heller wasn't afraid to tackle business ventures. She challenged men in the workforce and in private discussions. Her friends called her both gutsy and nutsy.

"I always felt different," said Heller. "When I first started going to CLC (College of Lake County) I realized I wasn't different, I was just smart."

Heller, 46, operates her 14-year-old catering business at 2505 Green Bay Rd. where she recently opened a sitdown deli. She provides professional catering services for a spectrum of social events as well as corporate meetings.

It's late afternoon at the deli and a few customers finish up coffee and homemade cinnamon rolls. The phone won't stay quiet and a sales representative waits as Heller puts in the weekly food order. Heller, a fashionable woman with silver hair, has a smile that carries her friendliness and a voice that speaks with confidence.

Linda Heller

Her life hasn't been easy and she admits she has found success in the business world the hard way. But Heller enjoys her role as a woman entrepreneur. "I enjoy being very feminine and a lady, but I also enjoy getting the contract," she said.

Her business venture into catering was by no means her first sales adventure. In 1967 she became the first woman in Washington, D.C. to sell carpet installation supplies. The company hired her and a man to fill one slot. The man quit in three weeks while she earned the nickname of "fantabulous" for the next two years.

Out of her home, Heller has sold encyclopedias, bun coffeemakers, Beeline fashions, and whatever else that earned her a few extra bucks.

Economist stresses business caution

by ADAM H. KERMAN

"The only thing that can trip up the economy is if the President and Congress do something," said Robert J. Genetski, senior vice president and chief economist of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank.

Genetski was addressing members of the Wheeling, Glenview and Northbrook Chambers of Commerce at an event hosted by Ronald J. Borden and Company, certified public accountants, and the Harris Bank of Glencoe. The event took place on Thursday, Nov. 19, the day before the compromise was announced on the federal government's budget deficit.

He said the U.S. economy is far stronger than that of other Western nations, including Japan, Germany, and Britain.

"The basic forces under current policies are keeping our economy strong."

"We have had six percent growth in recent years. Half is inflation, half real growth," he said.

However, he advised people to run their businesses with caution.

"Even though profits are up, don't spend money on anything that won't immediately boost sales. 'Avoid debt that depends on continued strength to pay it off,' he said.

He reasoned that Congress is likely to take strong protectionist action and raise taxes, which will slow down the economy.

He said that when the stock market crashed in October, the nation didn't lose a half trillion dollars in purchasing power.

"It wasn't money that can be spent at any one time."

"The fall represented a drop in people's collective expectations," he explained.

"Stocks are undervalued now if we don't move toward establishing protectionist barriers, but overvalued if we do," he said.

Genetski explained the harm of protectionism.

Genetski said that international trade is a closed system.

"Whatever we buy overseas, the dollars used are promptly resented here."

"If we buy a Toyota, the Japanese buy goods, services, stocks, and bonds from us."

"Trade barriers break the closed system: they prevent the prompt responding of money," Genetski said.

He noted that last April, the President imposed 100 percent tariffs on Japanese consumer electronics.

"We didn't send the Japanese $300 million that we normally would have sent them."

"The Japanese, in turn, were not buying bonds. Interest rates shot up one percent in one day."

"You never know what segment of the economy relies on any other segment, until it's too late," Genetski said.

Bond prices fluctuate with market conditions

by GARY S. MEYERS

Q. My husband and I sold our home last year and invested the entire $40,000 profit in Kemper's Government Plus bond fund. Although we still are earning a high yield, we have watched our principal steadily decrease. We were under the impression that the principal was secure.

However, our broker now tells us the value of our investment actually rises and falls as market conditions and interest rates change. We are concerned about losing our life savings. Both of us are over 60 years old. What should we do?—Retired in Evanston.

A. From May through October, the bond market took a beating. Inflation fears sparked interest rate rises, which depressed bond prices. Unfortunately, you were among the many who invested in bonds thinking that their principal was not at risk.

Whenever interest rates rise, bond prices fall. Conversely, when interest rates fall, as they have done since the stock market crash on Oct. 19, bond prices rise. So your investment fluctuates along with the economy.

"Most people who invest in bonds are not thoroughly advised about how the market works, and almost no one reads the prospectus," said Richard Bailey, chairman of the board of Massachusetts Financial Services in Boston.

Luckily, many investors who lost money in bonds have been able to recover some of their losses since the dive of the stock market.

"Strange as it may seem to many investors, the bond market was strengthened by the stock market crash," said Bailey. "Inflation fears have relaxed, and bonds and bond funds are now pretty close to the breakeven point for the year."

So if you're uncomfortable with this kind of investment, you might want to get out now. However, with the interest rates declining, bond prices are climbing.

We expect this trend to continue. You might want to wait a little longer.

Remember, this Kemper fund has a redemption fee of five percent in the first year, which declines one percent per year.

Never make any investment you don't understand thoroughly.

Q. To keep fuel costs down, I have insulated my home with new thermal pane windows and have added several more inches of rock wool in the attic. I have caulked all the windows, as well as the patio door. As a result, my fuel bill has decreased between $500 and $600 per year.

But now I have a problem with water and trapped moisture inside the windows. Mold grows easily and the windows continually have to be wiped.

I have tried opening the windows a bit, but it doesn't help at all. Someone suggested having a ventilator installed in the bathroom. But that would cost around $700 because of construction design, and I am not sure even that would work. Any suggestions?—Growing Moldy in Utah.

A. In general, the advice you have received is good. Opening the windows can help in some instances, but mechanical ventilation is what you really need.

However, the price you have been quoted for a bathroom vent seems high. Bathroom ventilators cost between $40 and $100, and you can install many units yourself.

Pick one that turns on automatically whenever the moisture reaches a certain level. The Home Ventilation Institute, located in Arlington Heights, recommends choosing a bathroom vent that exchanges air at least eight times per hour.

Although the majority of moisture is created in the bathroom, the laundry room, kitchen and basement can also cause problems. Vent these rooms as well. A range hood and fan above the stove are important. Prices start around $70.

If the problem persists, a heat-recovery vent also known as an air-to-air heat exchanger, used widely in Canada, is one possibility. It takes moisture-laden air out and brings in colder, drier air. However, at about $500, this alternative is expensive, and your heating bill likely will rise a little.

The Home Ventilation Institute, in addition to certifying vents for air movements and noise, offers a free ventilation guide to homeowners. The 20-page guide is available by writing the Home Ventilation Institute, 30 W. University Dr., Arlington Heights, 60004.

Q. Our son was recently killed in an accident at his place of employment, a construction company.

Since an independent contractor was involved, our insurance carrier has denied the claim. We qualify for workmen's compensation, but is there anything we can do to get the insurance company to honor our claim?

A. I wish there was an easy answer, but there isn't. You have three steps of recourse. First, you should write a letter of appeal to someone with more authority in the insurance company to seek a reversal of the denial.

If that doesn't work, you can also write to your state insurance company.

"Ultimately, an accident involving an independent contractor is tricky, so it may become a matter for the courts to decide," said Robert Hunter, president of the National Insurance Consumer Organization in Alexandria, Va. "The best thing to do is to consult a reputable personal-injury attorney."

Personal injury lawyers often do not charge hourly fees. Instead, they charge a contingency fee, meaning they get a percentage of the award if you win.

"We could have bought similar goods from the Koreans, but they respond the money in a different way," he added. He noted similarities between the U.S. economy now, and in 1929.

"In 1929, Congress was working on the Smoot-Hawley tariff. Every time the bill advanced, the stock market fell.

"When Hoover signed the bill, the economy went bankrupt. Jobs, businesses were destroyed worldwide," he said.

"It's a myth that protectionism makes good politics," he said, noting that both Smoot and Hawley were kicked out in 1932.

"They both died nine years later.

"The lesson is, 'Don't mess with protectionism,'" he said.

He said the protectionist measures being considered now is the worst piece of legislation there is.

"The 1929 budget surplus and trade surplus did not prevent the depression," he said.

Genetski predicted that the trade bill has a 40 percent chance of becoming law.

He criticized people who say that the productivity and standards of living are down now, compared to the late 1970's.

"Their analysis is sloppy at best, and dishonest at worst.

"1979, 1980 and 1981 were the three worst years of decline. We still haven't fully recovered.

"Until 1981, trends were negative. Since then, productivity has risen one percent a year.

"The standard of living is up five to six percent.

"You must start the analysis with the change of policies in 1981," he said.

He said that employment is increasing here, whereas the Germans have not created a new job in ten years.

"Even the Japanese have had an increase in employment of less than one percent in the last decade.

"In this country, the demand for workers is so great that companies are going into the inner city to train people," he said.

He said that so many people have been saying that the budget and trade deficits are harmful to the economy that it has become an accepted fact.

"The budget deficit is high because it is sensitive to inflation," he said.

Congress sets spending a year and a half in advance.

"Fifteen percent inflation was expected in 1981, and Congress budgeted accordingly.

"However, when inflation is down, tax receipts are down as well. The deficit exploded," he said.

The deficit is caused by inflation falling faster than expected.

He said that in 1979, the trade deficit was low.

"This was not because we were outselling the rest of the world. The rest of the world didn't want to sell to us.

"They had no confidence in our economy, so they didn't want to invest their money here.

"Now, the trade deficit is high because the world wants to invest. By selling us more, they can invest more here," Genetski said.

Genetski sees the impossibility of forecasting the value of money as the basic flaw in the economy.

"Perhaps you can make an educated guess about what your money is worth in a year. But, beyond that?" he said.

"The pressure for protectionism results from volatile exchange rates. It causes a great deal of attention among nations," he said.

He called for a commodity-based system to determine what money is worth.

"An index of sensitive goods should be established. When the index goes up, tighten up the economy (by raising interest rates, for instance). If the index goes down, loosen up the economy (with higher government spending, lower interest rates).

"If this policy were carried out logically, inflation and inflationary expectation could be eliminated," Genetski said.

'Superwoman'

small out of Heller's Lake Bluff kitchen. Within a couple years, the health department told her it was too large and it had to be moved to a business location. In 1976 Heller and her husband opened a restaurant (same location as the deli) and she managed the catering from the back room.

But in 1984, her life began to crumble. The restaurant closed, 25 years of marriage was ending and her son had died.

After a couple years, she decided to commit herself to success. "But I was also determined to have a social life, not to be so tied to the business," she said. Instead of working 16-hour days as before, she devoted herself to "work smart" as an administrator.

Her catering specialties include hot hors d'oeuvres, cold canapes, elegant main entrees and desserts—all homemade. Heller can also provide chefs, waiters, china, floral arrangements and outdoor dancefloors.

As a wedding consultant, Heller been responsible for plenty of lavish wedding receptions.

Her philosophy is quality of excellence, a concept she says is lacking in the United States. "I want to do my little part in this world to change that. Customers—I care about what they think, I care about what they want."

After years of feeling "like a freak", Heller has found other determined women in the National Association of Women Business Owners.

"There's a lot of opportunities out there for women, much more today than there ever was. But woman still are expected to do it all," said Heller. "I still think it's a lot easier for a man. Women still have to do the childraising, housework...and still have a career. It's not easy, I know."

Working inside the home will be a favored alternative for women with children, Heller expects. "You cannot depend on a man to take care of you for the rest of your life," she said.

Consultant tells of income tax breaks for investors

Because 1988 income tax rates are expected to be lower than 1987 tax rates, just about everyone is at least aware that a taxpayer should defer income until 1988 and accelerate deductions in 1987. Not everyone knows how to accomplish this, however.

The two alternatives for deferring income amount to postponing short term capital gains into 1988. First, one could transfer funds from instruments such as money markets (paying current interest) into short term discount obligations, including CD's or Treasury bills maturing after Jan. 1, 1988.

Second, one could buy a put option on stock that expires next year or sell the stock short against the box, which is the same as selling the stock now, except for the income tax year it affects.

Deductions on income taxes can be accelerated by doubling up on any charitable contributions this year and by prepaying state and local income and property taxes, miscellaneous deductions, including investment expenses (subscriptions, fees, etc.)

The new tax law has helped the investor with a few tax breaks that are not so well known. For example, the rules for capital gains and losses have been altered significantly and their effect may be worthwhile for one's 1987 year-end tax planning.

To begin with, all gains and losses taken through a Dec. 31 trade date are considered 1987 transactions even if the settlement date falls in 1988. The 60 percent tax exclusion for net long term capital gains has been eliminated which is hardly a break but the IRS used to require $2 of net long term capital losses to offset every $1 of ordinary income and now that is a dollar-for-dollar write-off.

During 1987 only, net long term capital gains are taxed at a maximum rate of 28 percent while net short term gains are subject to a maximum rate of 38.5 percent. To qualify as a long term holding, securities must be held for six months and a day or more, i.e. a security must have been owned prior to June 30, 1987 to sell it this December 31 for a long term capital gain.

Under tax reform, investment interest expense (margin) is deductible to the extent of net investment income. Excess investment interest expense is subject to the same rules as consumer interest is now. That is, in 1987, only 65 percent of either interest expense will be deductible.

These suggestions are merely considerations of which one should be aware. A brief discussion with an informed broker and/or tax accountant should make clear if any investment account transactions should be dictated by the condition of one's account vis a vis the tax laws and, of course, by the prices that could occur in the stock market throughout the month of December.

Gurnee Business Center offers sites at discount

Site clearing on the Waukegan Outdoor (drive-in) property in Gurnee began in late October and all improvements will be completed by early spring.

The outdoor property consists of 29 acres which has been rezoned and annexed to the Village of Gurnee as a P.U.D. (planned unit development), being a combination of Gurnee's B-2 and I-2 business and industrial zoning. There will be a road running through the property and the land will be divided into 23 business and industrial lots.

The development is a joint venture between Marling Management and The Ambrogio Limited Partnership. It has been named the Gurnee Business Center.

While there are several large parcels and developments available in the area, there are few small businesses and industrial sites available for smaller users.

Marling Management of Libertyville has been appointed the exclusive agent for the development, and they will be offering precompletion discounts for any sales prior to January 1, 1988.

Alimony means special tax rules, according to IRS

Divorced or separated persons who pay or receive alimony under a court agreement should know the tax rules that affect them, Richard S. Wintrobe Jr., district director of Internal Revenue Service for northern Illinois says.

Alimony may be deductible by the person paying it if certain requirements are met. If alimony is deductible by the payer, it is taxable to the recipient.

Payments under certain divorce or separation agreements are treated as alimony if all the following requirements are met:

-The payment is in cash.

-The parties do not designate that the payment is not alimony.

-If the parties are legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance, the parties are not members of the same household when the payment is made.

-There is no liability to make any payment (in cash or property) after the death of the recipient spouse.

-The payment is not treated as child support.

The payer can deduct alimony payments from gross income without itemizing deductions, noted Wintrobe. The payer must include on his or her tax return the spouse's or former spouse's last name, if different from the payer's, and social security number. Failure to report the number may result in a $50 penalty.

If the spouse or former spouse fails to supply the payer with his or her social security number, a penalty of $50 may be imposed on the spouse or former spouse.

Free IRS Publication 504, "Tax Information for Divorces or Separated Individuals," explains the tax treatment of alimony in more detail. Taxpayers can order the publication by calling 1-800-424-3676.

More to do in Vegas than lose your money

by Jim Wærken

President, North Star Travel

You've seen Tom Jones, the Siegfried & Roy Show, and even got front row seats to see Rodney Dangerfield (the $20 to the man at the door helped with that!). The slots have swallowed whatever money the tables didn't get. The fun's over, and it's time to go home. Well, maybe not.

Since you've flown over 1,500 miles to get to this oasis in the desert, why not stay an extra day or so to see the other wonders Nevada has to offer? Many are only a few miles from the hotel.

One area I highly recommend is Valley of Fire State Park. It is 50 miles northeast of Las Vegas; take I-15 to Hwy. 40. This 26,000 acre park is so named because of the way the sun reflects off the red and pink sandstone formations. There are also remnants of an ancient Indian civilization going back almost 1,000 years.

Ever heard of the Grand Canyon? It's only six hours by car from Vegas. Too long a trip? It's only one and a half hours by plane. I'd recommend driving and staying overnight at the lodge on Canyon Rim.

Even closer to Las Vegas is Lake Mead, formed by Hoover Dam. Just take I-93 southeast to the dam. Who would expect to find a lake with 550 miles of shoreline in the middle of the desert? Boating, swimming and all the stuff that goes with a lake are available. You might even try scuba diving in the middle of Nevada. I'm not going to go into any boring statistics on the dam itself. OK, maybe just a couple. It is 726 feet high and 1,244 feet long. You'll just have to take the tour for the rest.

Right in Vegas is Ethel M Chocolate Factory. Ethel M is really Ethel Mars of Mars candy fame. When the Mars family sold the company in Chicago, they agreed not to use the name or to sell candy this side of the Mississippi. Her gourmet chocolates in Vegas in no way resemble the stuff in the check-out line at Jewel.

Area Scout leaders receive top awards at conference

The Rolling Meadow's High School string ensemble led by Kendall Hastings entertained a capacity crowd and Second City Players presented an uproarious series of impromptu skits for the adult audience. The highest adult award in Girl Scouting, the Thanks Badge, went to two outstanding volunteers, Martha Wieland of Park Ridge and Wendy Maston of Round Lake.

Thanks Badge recipient Wendy Maston is a 25-year Girl Scout. She has volunteered as a troop leader, community chairman, trainer, cookie manager, district delegate and delegate to the National Program Conference. Affectionately known as "Huggy Bear," Maston's award citation commended her many gifts to Girl Scouting, including the gift of herself.

"We're certain that there are many young Girl Scouts who, as they mature, will fondly remember Wendy for the experiences that they shared together," said Pat Nordling, presenter. This year's recipients from the Lakeland area are: Martha Gillam, Antioch; Gale Dulan, Gurnee; Judy Larson, Lake Villa-Lindenhurst; and Pat Tonkin and Karen Bourque.

Schornick to direct 'Messiah'

Grand performance of Handel's 'Messiah,' greatest oratio ever written, will be presented Friday, Dec. 4, at 8 p.m. at St. Peters in Antioch and on Sunday, Dec. 6, at 7 p.m. in Marshall Field's Court in Hawthorn Center. Chorus will be rehearsed by Ralph Brooke, Antioch, and is comprised of Dir. Don Horisberger has planned an all-new program guaranteed to delight the entire family.

This year's program focuses on the Christmas carol. With selections spanning five centuries, the 100-voice chorus with brass ensemble and organ will perform music from the splendor of Renaissance masters to the warmth of popular seasonal favorites. At times the audience will be surrounded by music as antiphonal choruses and brass choirs perform from the theatre's stage, balcony and alcoves.

chamber Singers will perform madrigals and seasonal fare composed for smaller ensemble. More programming of popular Yuletide favorites than ever before and that favorite annual event of the combined chorus and audience "Carol Sing", accompanied by brass and organ, will ensure a memorable evening for everyone.

Guest artists will include The Pitzen Brass Ensemble from Chicago and William Crowle at the console of the Genesee Theatre pipe organ.

Plan now to experience the warm sounds of Christmas and share the splendor of the season with The Waukegan Symphony Chorus. Tickets are available in advance and at the door - $7, adults; $3, seniors, students, military; or season ticket. For more information, call (312)244-1660.

Santa can be found all over the Lakeland area

by GLORIA DAVIS

'Tis the time of the year when every child wants to talk to Santa in person with plans of doing some gentle personal persuasion connected with the items on their Christmas wish list in mind.

In the Lakeland area the shopping malls all have a Santa and sometimes Mrs. comes along in residence until Christmas.

Many community organizations feature their own Santa who will not only visit with all comers but even pose for pictures.

So enterprising area children, who want to cover all bases, can go from Santa to Santa, repeating their requests, just to make sure.

At the Pier Place in Fox Lake, there will be an open house plus a Breakfast With Santa Claus from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., on Sunday, Dec. 6. The Grant High School Brass Ensemble and choir will also entertain at this affair.

In Long Grove, to go along with its old fashioned holiday celebration, Santa will be available for a little chat in a 10 foot by 12 foot gingerbread house every weekday from noon to 4 p.m. through Dec. 20.

Another old fashioned Yule celebration will take place at the Lake County Museum, located on Rte. 176 in the Lakewood Forest Preserve Dist. Here there will be rides with Santa on a horse drawn wagon available from noon to 4 p.m.

In Silver Lake, the annual Christmas party at the American Legion Hall will take place on Sunday, Dec. 20., where Santa will not only visit, have pics taken, but he'll have a surprise for all his little guests.

Santa and Mrs. Santa will be taking in person calls at Santa's Castle in the water tower parking lot in Antioch, (Continued on Page 6)

10-year-old to dance Clara in 'Nutcracker'

Sugar plums, toy soldiers, giant rats and a handsome prince will come alive again in this year's performance of "The Nutcracker." The story, which has delighted audiences for nearly a century, returns to Milwaukee's Performing Arts Center for a 24-performance run Dec. 15 through 30.

This holiday classic, set to music by Peter Ilyich Tchaikovsky, will include an entirely new second act featuring choreography by George Balanchine and costumes designed by Steven Rubin.

For the first time in Milwaukee, a 10-year-old ballerina will dance the lead role of Clara. In addition to the large adult cast, more than 40 children from the Milwaukee Ballet School will dance in every performance.

"Even for people who have seen 'The Nutcracker' recently, there are many more reasons for them to see it again," said Robert Weiss, artistic director for the Pennsylvania and Milwaukee Ballet.

"Balanchine's choreography of Act II is truly that of the classic 'Nutcracker,' it is the one that inspired all other variation in the United States."

Following three 1 p.m. matinees on Dec. 19, 20 and 23, ballet-goers will be invited to attend a McDonald's cast party in the PAC's Magin Lounge. The parties will be hosted by cast members from

"The Nutcracker" and Ronald McDonald.

"Nutcracker" tickets sold to groups of 15 or more have reached a record-setting high of more than 4,000 ticket sales to date. Groups from Grafton, Racine, Plymouth, Green Bay and the Chicago area are among the more than 85 organizations planning to attend the performance.

Fifteen percent group discounts on "Nutcracker" tickets are available through the Milwaukee Ballet, 504 W. National Ave., (414)643-7677.

Performances of "The Nutcracker" are at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 15 through 19, Dec. 21-26, and Dec. 28-29; at 5 p.m. Dec. 20 and 27; and 1 p.m. Dec. 19-20, Dec. 22-30.

There will be no performances on Dec. 24 or 25. Ticket prices range from $5 to $24.50 for all performances.

For additional information or to order tickets, call PAC Phone-Charge, (414)273-7206.

Rock Tracks

The music, rhythm and message behind Bad Bob And The New World Crusade has long made an impression on the New England music scene. Now, however, Bad Bob And The New World Crusade is branching out.

"Bad" Bob Therrien — lead singer, songwriter and guitarist for the band — brought his band together while still a member of the cult band Lost Generation. To date, Bad Bob And The New World Crusade have produced two studio recordings: New Signs of Everlasting and, their latest and most powerful effort, a four-song EP entitled Today's News (Incas). Bassist Tom Alexander drummer Jim Coppola and guitarist/singer Dick Neal and Bad Bob comprise the band, which conveys a sublime soul-searching message amidst deep, bass-laden rock music and the powerful vocals of lead singer Therrien.

"Our new songs are inspirational as far as the lyrics go, but I don't relate them to any religion," says Therrien. "Basically, our songs deal with the trials and difficulties involved in life and trying to cope and change things."

Bad Bob And The New World Crusade plans to go back into the studio in January of 1988. "We feel we've got a strong product to sell, and we're looking toward success." ©1987, McNaught Synd.

CORRECTION

According to owner of T. S. Boogies, Jeff Blum, the new Antioch restaurant is an "'80s futuristic" restaurant not a 1950s restaurant as reported in the Nov. 20 issue of the Antioch News-Reporter. It was the exterior resemblance to a 1950s diner, the remarkable likeness of the figure on the sign to yesterday's hepcat jitterbug and the use of hot pink and aqua in the decor that fooled the reporter. Blum says his jukebox is a compact disc jukebox. Could this be a case of "Back to the Future?"

Expectations is homey prelude

by TOM WITOM

"Expectations," premiering at Chicago's Victory Gardens Theater through Dec. 27, is a nice, homey prelude to Christmas. It's also a showcase of playwright Dean Corrin's fine ear for the way real people talk and carry on after the loss of a loved one.

In this drama, the scene is the kitchen of the Schroeder home in Kansas, a place where the family has gathered for its first Christmas without mom, even though her spirit is almost a tangible presence.

Edgar Meyer is convincing as Gene Schroeder, the aging widower determined to carry on with the family's holiday traditions. He quibbles with his son-in-law about the way to make gravy ("Mom would have used the giblets.")

He tries to show off his self-sufficiency by singlehandedly trimming the tree—except for the missing angel that had always graced the top.

What happens in "Expectations" is not geared to knock your socks off. Between the cooking and the sometimes mundance reminiscing, a family is sorting out how they feel about one another—and themselves.

It makes for some insightful theater. And while the pace of the play neither thunders along nor plods, it could survive some pruning, especially in the first half.

Sid Schroeder (Scott McPherson) is in fine form as the divorced son who has lost himself in academia and can't deal with the pregnancy of his young girl friend.

His sister, Janine Schroeder (Annabel Armour), burdened by self-doubts, is too involved in her profession and too fearful to accept responsibility for her husband's two children.

Annie Sherman (Kathleen Cecchin) is the outsider, the spunky vegetarian girl friend whose fresh eyes find hope for the future in the routine rituals of the past.

And Roger McClean (played by Jack McLaughlin-Gray) is the son-in-law who is playing a losing game of "Mr. Nice Guy."

The setting is perfect: a kitschy '50s kitchen, so intimate and inviting it makes a natural fit for the homespun dialogue. It is enough to help the viewer gloss over the occasional cliché (i.e., the father-son chat in which the elder Schroeder advises: "Sometimes you work hard at keeping all your doors open. If you don't eventually go through one of them, you are just as stuck as if you allowed the others to close.")

"Expectations" itself is down to earth and entertaining, and opens more than a few doors of its own.

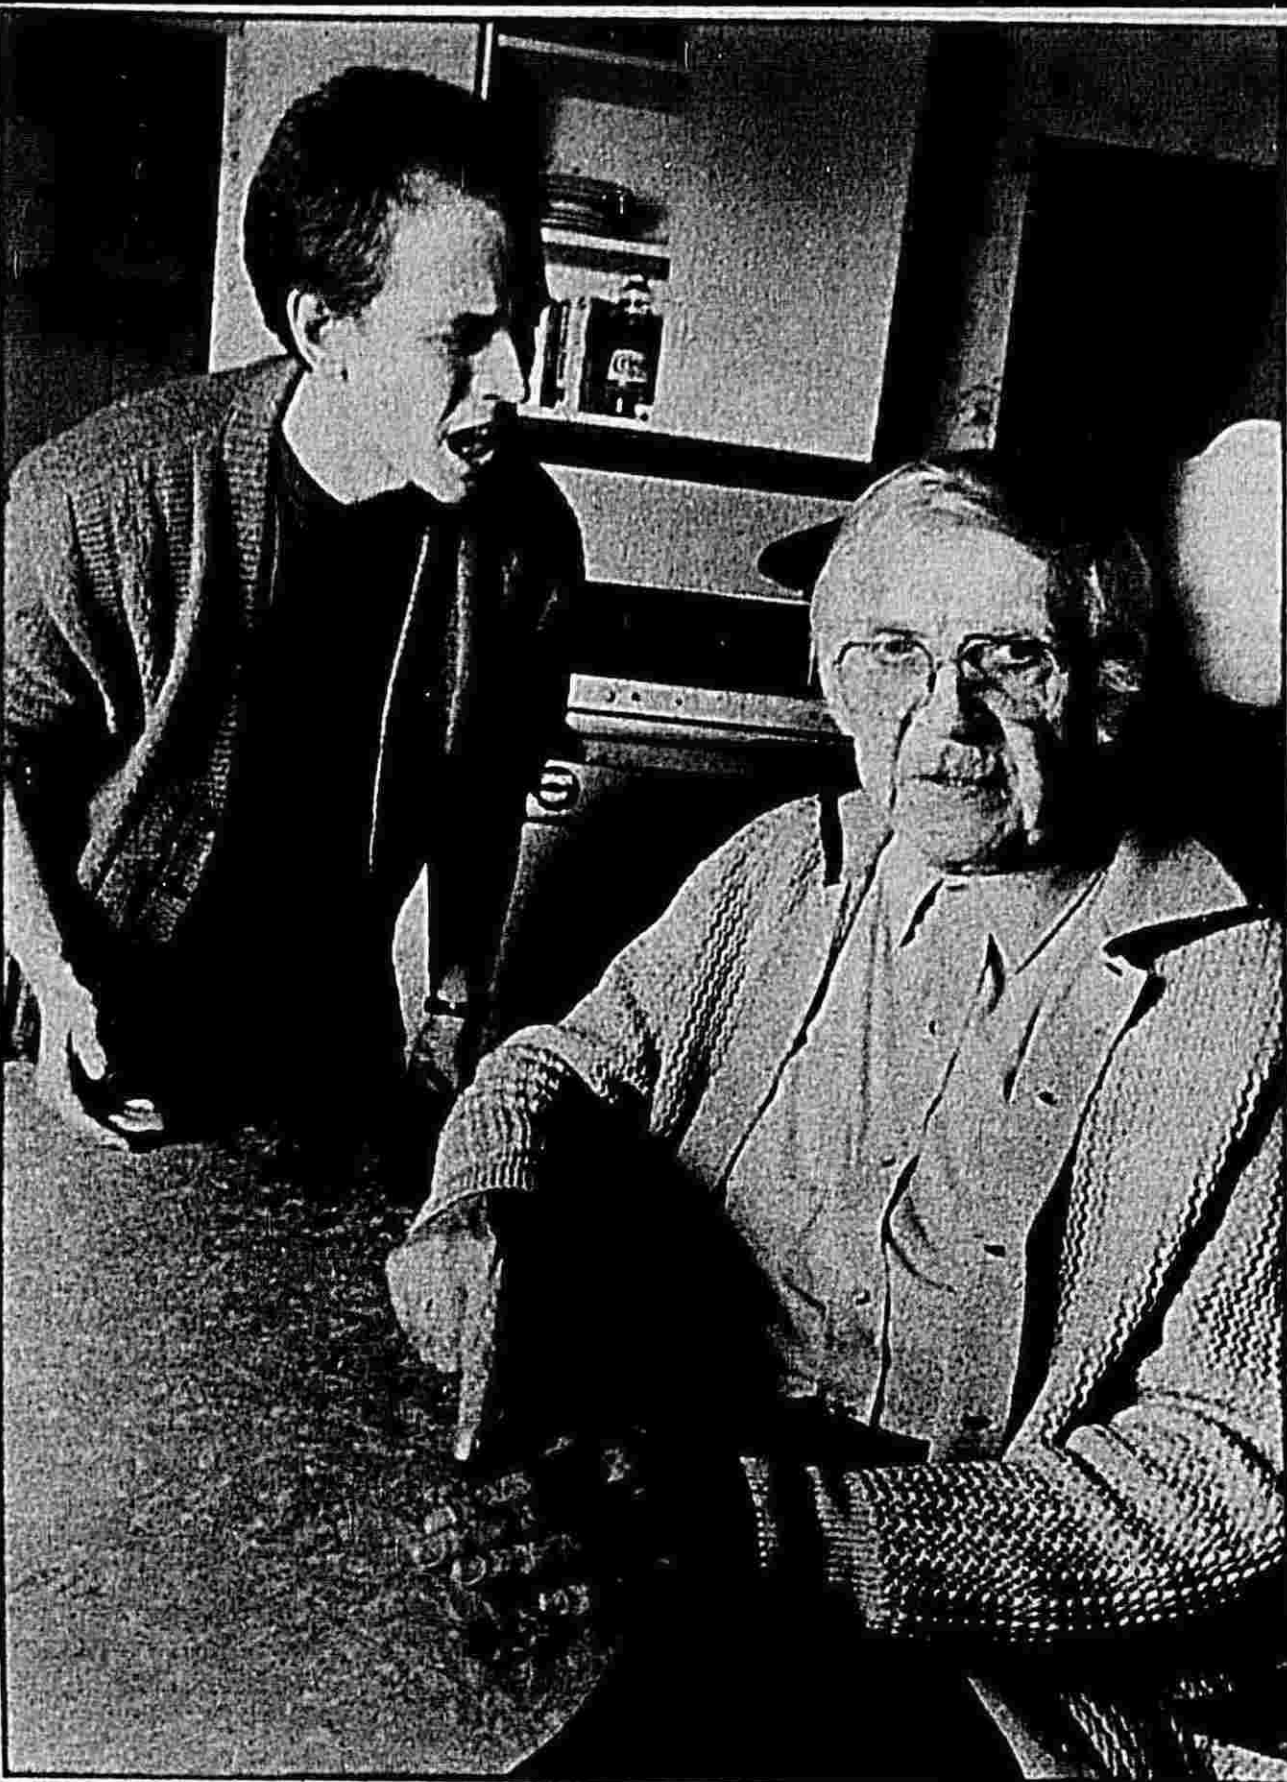

Garden Club lunch

The Long Lake Garden Club invites members and guests to its Christmas party on Thursday, Dec. 17.

Festivities will be held at Maravella's Banquet Hall. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m., with a choice of breast of chicken with asparagus and Hollandaise sauce, or orange roughy, together with lots of good cheer and merriment.

Cost is $7.50 per person. Reservations must be received by Dec. 15, and can be made by calling (312) 587-1220.

'Expectations' great

Scott McPherson, left, and Edgar Meyer thrash out the realities of their changing world in production of "Expectations" that is now playing at Chicago's Victory Gardens Theater through Dec. 27. It is a showcase of author Dean Corrin's ability to pick up the real way that people talk and carry on after the death of a loved one. Critic Tom Wittom calls "Expectations," a "homey prelude to spending Christmas without mom." Wittom also says that "Expectations" is a down to earth and entertaining production.

Carmel choirs' busy

On Dec. 9, the Co-Choir performance will be for St. Joseph Parish Christmas Housewalk (Libertyville), and on Dec. 11 there will be a Christmas Concert at Carmel Auditorium.

On Dec. 20, all of the Carmel choral groups will be caroling in downtown Long Grove.

The annual Christmas Concert at Carmel High School will be held on Friday, Dec. 11 at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1.50 for students and senior citizens.

Schornick, Smouse direct 'Amahl and the Night Visitors'

The Bowen Park Opera Company has established an outstanding cast for its upcoming production of Gian-Carlo Menotti's, "Amahl and the Night Visitors".

Under the musical direction of Lynn Schornick, and the stage direction of Ken Smouse, this wonderful miracle opera will come to life in Goodfellow Hall in Bowen Park, Dec. 11, 12, 13, 18, 19 and 20.

Friday and Saturday evening performances begin at 8 p.m. Sunday afternoon performances begin at 2 p.m. Tickets are $7 for adults and only $4 for seniors, students, and military personnel.

The cast features some of the finest vocal talents from the region. Debra Austin of Evanston will portray the mother. Austin's many roles include work with the Chicago Symphony, Music of the Baroque, Chicago Opera Theatre, Mason Ragland Opera Theatre, the Opera Factory, and others.

Jenny Pitcher of Zion will sing the part of Amahl. Pitcher grew up in Zion and is an accomplished pianist. Her performance as Amahl will mark her acting debut.

The three kings are Ken Smouse, of Antioch, William Shomos, of Skokie, and Alva Earley of Chicago. Lake County audiences are familiar with Smouse as a stage director, actor and singer. He is the director of the Bowen Park Theatre Company for the Jack Benny Center as well as being stage director for the opera company.

Smouse portrays Kaspar, the sweet and somewhat preoccupied king of the three. He brings a quality of acting and musical articulation to this character which is guaranteed to please audiences.

William Shomos sings the part of Melchior, the forthright king whose presence focuses us on the search for the Christ Child.

His warm voice brings a wonderfully rich texture to the tapestry of ensembles in which Menotti weaves and creates a moving, dramatic personality for Melchior.

Shomos is a frequent performer with the Chicago Gilbert and Sullivan society and will return to Waukegan in March of 1988 to sing Captain Cocoran in the Waukegan Symphony's production of "H.M.S. Pinafore".

Bass Alva Earley is Balthazar, the third of the kingly triumvirate. Earley has sung throughout the Chicago area. He has been especially active with Centauris Opera in Chicago. This is not his first Balthazar and will surely not be his last. He is very active as an oratorio singer.

The page is played by David Lundholm of Waukegan. He recently was heard as Snoopy in Waukegan High School's production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown".

The chorus for "Amahl" is comprised of singers from throughout the area.

All performances will be held in Goodfellow Hall at the Jack Benny Center for the Arts in Waukegan's beautiful Bowen Park. For advance tickets or reservations please call (312) 244-1660.

Duo sets holiday program

Kroeger and Collin, the modern Nelson Eddy-Jeanette MacDonald duo from Kishwaukee College, will make a return engagement to McHenry Villa at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 20.

Their sound of elegance will waft through the Villa Lounge as they present a special Christmas program, ranging from "Twas the Night Before Christmas" to "O Holy Night." The legend and legacy of Christmas will be presented through the artists' singing, piano playing and story telling.

The duo of Jennine Collin and Dr. Richard Kroeger is well known in the musical field. Collins has degrees in performance and music management, and is a staff member at Kishwaukee College.

In the spirit and warmth of the holiday season, McHenry Villa welcomes the public.

Libertyville Chorale will present 'Holiday Cheer'

The Liberty Fremont Chorale and the Prairie Symphony Chamber Orchestra, both under the baton of music director David Katz, will present a choral concert entitled "Holiday Cheer" at the First Presbyterian Church of Libertyville, Maple and Douglas Sts., Friday, Dec. 11 at 8 p.m.

Included on the program will be Vivaldi's popular "Gloria" and works by Purcell, Normand Lockwood and Gwyneth Walker. Both Lockwood's "Carol Fantasy" and Walker's "As the Stars Had Told" will be receiving area premieres in this performance by the 50-voice chorale and newly formed, professional chamber orchestra.

Soloists for the Vivaldi are two award-winning, Chicago based artists, soprano Mary LeGere and mezzo-soprano Sharon Garvey. The Liberty Fremont Corale Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Edwin Kramer, will also perform.

Tickets for the concert are available at the door on the evening of the concert at $8 for adults and $6 for students and seniors. Substantial savings may be had by purchasing subscription tickets to the entire series of Liberty Fremont concert Society events, including an upcoming performance by the Oneota Chamber Players of Luther College and the Choral Spectacular to be presented by the chorale and Prairie Symphony in April. Call (312)526-2472 for information.

The Liberty Fremont Chorale, now in its 14th season, offers community church and professional singers the opportunity to create musical excellence in the performance of major choral works.

Music director Katz, one of the Midwest's busiest and most versatile conductors, is the most recent in a long line of distinguished conductors of the chorale, a list which includes Margaret Hillis and Doreen Rao.

Membership in the chorale is open to experienced choral singers. Preparations for the April concert begin Feb. 9.

WHO WOULD HAVE GUESSED?

Do your children tell you everything? If they have taken a spill, fallen off a bike, or injured themselves playing football, you may be the last to know. That's why it's important to give your children a Chiropractic Checkup regularly. Many times, untreated childhood accidents turn into spinal distortions that may not show up for months or years. Parents never really know how many little bumps, knocks, and falls their children have had. Why take a chance? Bring your children in for a Chiropractic Checkup. CALL TODAY!

THIS WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME
Weekly Tip: Follow the advice of a newcomer in your life.
Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) You have been accomplishing a great deal in the world of business, but now you need a chance to rest and relax. Get away with your mate for the weekend.
Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) There are people out there who are trying to influence you in a negative way; be on your guard for these people. You don't need any aggravation.
Gemini (May 21-June 20) An unexpected invitation is headed your way; don't hesitate in your acceptance. Schedule your time so that you can see friends and family.
Cancer (June 21-Jul. 20) It looks like there's some hostility coming up on the homefront, but you'd do well to avoid involving yourself. Spend your time with friends instead.
Leo (Jul. 21-Aug. 22) You've got a head full of good ideas, but now is not the time to share them with superiors. Rely on your family and good friends if you need any advice.
Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There are many people trying to sway you one way or the other, but don't make decisions hastily; sleep on what you hear before taking action.
Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Hold your ground when dealing with superiors, but don't come off as stubborn. If you are right, you will gain the respect you have been striving for.
Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You may not be thinking clearly now, so work on clearing up your thoughts. Don't make any drastic decisions regarding your career just yet.
Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Steer clear of any kind of group function, whether it be of a social or business nature. Spend some "quality" time with those you really care about.
Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may be misinformed about something of great importance, so check things out before moving to the next step. Be cautious in financial dealings.
Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Be alert to some newcomer; this person may be trying to pull something over on you. Try to promote a sense of harmony within your social circle.
Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) You're terribly enthused about a new business venture, but study it first before acting on it. Don't let your romantic life slide, or you'll pay later.
If you were born this week, you are one of those people who is very tuned in to current events. Your calling could very well be in the fields of advertising or marketing. However, if it's not, once you do find your forte, be sure you act quickly when making decisions. Quick thinking is the key to success here.

WHEN IT COMES TO PERFORMANCE, IT'S GOTTA BE A DODGE DAYTONA.

$8995

The 1988 Dodge Daytona was designed to make driving fun. That's why we gave it a roaring fuel injected engine, sport suspension, power steering and four "rac" brakes. Inside Daytona, you'll find a... chromed instrument cluster with displays that include tachometer and trip odometer. An AM/FM stereo is also standard. Outside, Daytona's concealed headlights and sleek design help cut wind resistance. It looks fast just sitting in the driveway. But if you want more than good looks and great performance, don't worry. Daytona is backed by our 770 protection plan. Another thing you'll love in Daytona's hard to believe sticker price. Plus, your Dodge dealer can add even more value with money saving Equipment Packages. You can save anywhere from $190 to $550, depending on model and equipment package. If you want to make your driving fun again, see your Dodge dealer today. He'll show you how much fun a 1988 Daytona can be. Fine sticker price, including tax and destination charge. (See the limited warranty on overhead and under body rust through and its restrictions at your dealer. *Damage price based on sticker price of package items if purchased separately.

IT'S GOTTA BE A DODGE.

Lions continue providing hope to deaf and blind

by JAMES N. MANTZOROS

With Christmas just around the corner, it's noteworthy that Lions Clubs throughout Illinois are again reminding the public that handicapped people need help.

Lions Clubs raise money specifically for the blind and deaf. They are bringing new hope to the sightless children at the Illinois School for the Visually Impaired in Jacksonville.

"If the Lions had it in their power, they would wish us all one thing—good eyesight and eradication of deafness and blindness. However, while researchers, scientists and technicians are busy working toward this goal, they still have a long, long way to go," according to Norman R. Dahl, executive administrator of Lions of Illinois Foundation.

Dahl added that Lions will continue to rely on their various programs aimed at protecting the eyesight of everyone and at lessening the effects of crippling eye disease.

Under the auspices of the non-profit Lions, a variety of programs and services have been organized statewide. Twice a year, the Lions stage their special Low Vision Clinic. Working with a team of professionals from the Illinois College of Optometry in Chicago and resident ophthalmologists from the University of Illinois School of Medicine, Lions are bringing new hope, and new sight, to children regarded as blind or near blind.

Through a combination of the most sophisticated low vision aids and remedial instruction, the youngsters seen and examined—about 25 to 30 a session—are helped to see objects they had never dreamed of seeing.

Making it all possible is the Lions of Illinois Foundation, the Lions charitable and philanthropic affiliate, which works with the state's more than 750 Lions and Lioness Clubs in coordinating the program. The foundation pays for all the costs of examination, and for all the costly vision aids dispensed.

Lions Low Vision Club is offered free of charge and is funded through Lions Candy Day.

Paramount will host Royal Jazz's music

Don Neely's Royal Society Jazz Orchestra will appear at the Paramount Arts Center on Saturday, Dec. 12, at 7 p.m. to present a special program entitled "A Roaring Twenties Christmas."

The Royal Society will enliven Christmas with yuletide novelty as well as "Jazz Age" classics. Mirroring Don Neely's own devotion to this period, the members of the band authentically recapture the exuberance of music first heard by many on the 78 rpm records of Columbia and Victor.

This performance is sponsored by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and ticket prices are $14.50, $12.50 and $10.50. Plan to be present for an evening of style, charm and romance.

Then travel back even further in time when on Sunday, Dec. 20 at 3 p.m., the Nebraska Theatre Caravan presents a musical adaptation of "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens.

This spirited company of 36 returns to the Paramount this year bringing the costumes and sets that are as lavish as they are beautiful, and carrying the message of joy and love that the entire family will enjoy.

This performance is sponsored by the Riverstreet Press Inc. and the Macon Corp. Ticket prices are $16.50, $14.50 and $12.50.

Tickets are available at all Ticketron outlets, through Teletron at (312)853-3636, or at the Paramount Arts Centre Box Office at (312)896-6666.

Call or visit the box office at 8 E. Galena Blvd. in downtown Aurora for information, tickets, dinner reservations for the "all-you-can-eat" buffet before the show, and discounts for students and senior citizens. For group sales call Suzanne King at (312)896-7676.

There are two more shows in December that, although they are not sponsored by the Paramount Arts Centre, are sure to be popular with concert lovers.

On Sunday, Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m., be at the Paramount when the Fox River Valley Symphony presents Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow."

Antioch Jaycees have hot line to North Pole

For the ninth straight year, the Antioch Jaycees have arranged a direct phone line to Santa's workshop at the North Pole.

Santa will be calling Antioch youngsters in kindergarten through third grade on Tuesday, Dec. 15 and Thursday, Dec. 17 from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Project chairman Tim Keefer said that the Jaycees hoped to enable Santa to call more than 1,100 youngsters who were called last year.

To arrange the call from Santa, parents should fill out the form their child will be bringing home from school. Completed forms should then be returned to the school by Dec. 14.

Calls will be impossible without the form being returned, because Santa will not know the right numbers to call.

For more information about the Jaycees, call president John Gerhardt at (312)356-5926.

RING

If this is all your phone is capable of, it's selling your business short.

A business phone without the right features can literally have you running in circles. Running to get others to the phone. Scurrying to answer other phones. Or rushing back and forth for information.

Illinois Bell's Executive Package can help businesses with 2-6 lines operate more efficiently, simply by making your present phones more flexible... It lets you transfer calls, answer incoming calls from any phone in the office, even make conference calls... all to help improve productivity.

If your phone number begins with 395-, Executive Package is now available in your area. And if you order before December 5th, you will save 49%-70% on the connection charge.

Call us at 1 800 428-4111, Ext. 99 for more information. And start making your phones do more for you than just ring.

Mundelein complex ready for occupancy

The Vexcell Development Corp. is putting the finishing touches on a new 51,000 square foot office and warehouse complex in the Allanson Industrial Park in Mundelein. The structure, known as "Commerce Center at Mundelein," sits on a 3.75-acre site at a cost in excess of $2 million.

There are two buildings with 10 small units averaging 2,700 square feet in each one. Two units contain 100 percent office space; and the other units have an average of 18 percent office space, served with overhead doors, and have 14 feet ceiling height in the warehouse areas.

Vexcell has planned and designed these units to appeal to the small manufacturer, product distributors, service contractors, packaging facilities and others. The buildings have maximum energy efficiency and practical skylights.

Total occupancy will be available by Jan. 1, 1988. Several units are already leased.

Some tenants are combining two or more of the 2,700 square foot units for larger space. The complex is projected to have 100 to 150 employees when all spaces are leased.

J.C. Forney & Co. has been selected as the exclusive agent for leasing the units. Forney indicated that limited floor-plan changes can be made to accommodate.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Foss is NIU captain

Lisa Foss, who starred at Lake Zurich High School, is hoping to continue her collegiate success this winter at Northern Illinois University.

Foss, a 5-7 guard, averaged 17.9 points a game last year for the Huskies. For this season, Foss has been named a co-captain for NIU. The Huskies, competing as an independent, were 11-16 last season.

Fourth-year coach Jane Albright returns eight letterwinners from that squad. This year marks a new beginning for Northern's women's basketball program. The former Mid-American Conference school is now part of the North Star Conference.

"I was happy with the way the pre-season went. If I were to rate it on a scale of one to 10, I'd say we were at about an eight. We built a strong foundation during the pre-season," Albright, who is 34-48 at NIU, said.

Expected to start aside Foss is freshman point guard Denise Dove. Sophomore Carol Owens anchors the center position. Gena Stubbs is in the swing guard-forward slot while Tammy Hinchee, another soph, is a forward.

Carmel grads update

Two Carmel High School graduates are expected to play roles in the success of midwest colleges this season.

Rod Whittier has already made his mark at University of Wisconsin-Parkside. Whittier, whom Corsairs fans will remember as the flashy point guard of the 1984-85 team, scored 14 points as Parkside beat Ferris State 127-122 in double overtime.

At Lake Forest College, Aubrey O'Bryant is hoping to contribute to a team which is making a comeback from a 3-19 record last year.

Fast finish

Johnsburg High School graduate Jay Jackson will always remember his last collegiate cross country meet. Jackson, running for North Central College, finished sixth in the Division III national meet. Jackson's time for the 8,000 meter course was 24:41. North Central College won its seventh national championship by racking up 67 points in the meet at Poland, Mich. Second-place University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse had 78.

Iwema contributes

Kent Iwema, a Wildwood resident and Warren Twp. High School graduate, has rushed for 160 yards on 22 carries in the last two games for Northern Illinois University. Iwema, a senior, has scored three touchdowns this year for NIU.

Tourney all set

The tournament committee of The Knights of Columbus Our Lady of Rosary Council No. 8214 of Grayslake and Round Lake will be hosting a second Mid-Season Lake County Eighth grade basketball and cheerleading championships.

First-round games will be played starting at 9 a.m. on Dec. 19. All games will be played at Round Lake Senior High School. The second-round games will be played Dec. 20 with the "Final Four" contests set for Dec. 27. The cheerleading competition will also take place Dec. 27.

Looking for open teammate

Carmel nips Mundelein by two, prepares for new ESCC campaign

There's nothing quite like entering a rugged conference basketball season after coming off a close win against a crosstown rival.

That's the situation Carmel finds itself in as the Corsairs prepare for their East Suburban Catholic Conference opener at Joliet Catholic Dec. 4.

Carmel and first-year coach Scott Rosberg won two of three games in the Mundelein Thanksgiving tournament. The finale was a 56-54 narrow escape over the improving and host Mustangs. Carmel opened the season with a 63-55 loss to eventual tourney champ Fremd. The Corsairs then nipped Highland Park 48-42.

For Carmel, the three contests saw the continued steady play of senior center Scott Stahoviak. Stahoviak scored 18, 16 and 18 points. The tournament also saw the emergence of junior guards Eric Bruksch and Chris Mikrut as key role players on defense.

While pleased with his team's overall defensive effort, Rosberg still has some concerns about his team's showing on offense.

"We need a whole lot of work on offensive execution. That was our glaring weakness," Rosberg said.

Going into the game against Mundelein, Rosberg knew that the key would be how Carmel handled the Mustangs' pressing attack.

"Their type of pressure and their type of running up the floor is the type of team we will have to be ready for. That will be a real good test for us," Rosberg said before the game.

And early, it was clear that Mundelein had the upper hand. The Mustangs, led by J. T. Mathwig, led 19-13 after the first quarter. A bucket by Tim Ulrich gave the Mustangs a 35-25 lead at halftime.

"We told them about it, but yet they just come out flat. In all honesty, I do not know what we will have to do. I think we will have to do a lot of work over the next week in dealing with that type of pressure," Rosberg said.

Carmel put the clamps on Mathwig by assigning Bruksch to the senior. Bruksch, a 5-10 guard, not only stopped Mathwig, but came up with critical steals in the final two minutes. Mathwig finished with 24 points to lead Mundelein.

Bruksch's all-around play brought plaudits from Rosberg.

Scott Stahoviak

"A lot of credit has to go to Bruksch. It was not even just the steals. Mathwig is just a real force for them. But when Mathwig does not have the ball, they have a tendency to keep looking for him. We told Eric all we want you to do is deny him the ball when he does not have it. I thought Eric did a real nice job of that. That's a tough thing to do. And then ask a kid to come down and run an offense. Three games into the season and we are asking him to do this. He really responded well," Rosberg said.

"In the fourth quarter, I worked more on getting in front of him," Bruksch said of his strategy against Mathwig. "They did a good job of taking Mathwig out of the offense," Mundelein coach Dennis Kessel said.

Kessel said his squad tightened its interior defenses in the second half, allowing outside shots. But Carmel started hitting those, led by Kevin Talz and Jeff Kalk. Kalk had 10 points for Carmel. Their efforts opened up the inside for Stahoviak.

Stahoviak showed the way in the "crunch time". The senior gave Carmel its first lead at 52-50 with 4:45 left. He later secured the win with a free throw at the :37 mark.

Mundelein had its chances after that—they got the defensive rebound on the second shot. But Carmel's defense tangled up the Mustangs, who had to force an off-balance shot and foul Stahoviak. Stahoviak missed a free throw, but Mundelein's last-second desperation shot fell way short.

"I was disappointed that we did not get a better shot," Kessel said.

While Mathwig was being pressured, it did not help the Mundelein cause that the other guard, Doug Sundall, had fouled out.

A look at Carmel's first game: Fremd 63, Carmel 55: As in the Mundelein contest, the Corsairs had trouble getting off to a good start against powerful Fremd as well. A 20-11 Fremd lead after one held up. Carmel rallied in the second quarter to trim the deficit to 31-29 at halftime. The Vikings outscored Carmel 9-2 in the final four minutes of the third quarter to open a 46-39 lead.

"They applied great pressure on the wings and then kept sagging. Then they came out of the sag so quickly," Rosberg said.

The Corsairs used the defensive skills of Mikrut and Mikrut to stage a late rally. "They love to play that kind of game," the coach said.

Mundelein girls hold back Carmel, face Patriots next

Sometimes, lessons are learned the hard way. In February, Mundelein's girls basketball season ended against Rosstown rival Carmel because of a rally by Carmel. On Saturday, the Mustangs were not about to let history repeat itself.

Mundelein's Thanksgiving tournament.

So when Carmel, which trailed the Mustangs by 10 points at halftime, tied the Mustangs lead five with less than two minutes left, Mundelein hung on and pulled out a 42-41 win. The win gave Mundelein a second-place finish in the tourney with a 2-1 record while Carmel was 1-2. The Mustangs, winners of four of its first five games, host Stevenson Dec. 5 at 1 p.m. in a North Suburban Conference clash.

"We knew from the regional that Carmel could come back," Mundelein coach Perry Wilhelm said.

The Mustangs were without two key players in the contest. Jenny Kempfert had suffered a concussion a day earlier against Warren and Susan Musselwhite was also not with the team.

"Playing without Susan, the rest of the team did a good job of picking up the slack," Wilhelm said.

Mundelein used an effective press to control the game early and in the end the press helped supply a critical basket. After a Carmel turnover, Chris Churchill, who led Mundelein with 18 points, scored with 1:40 left for a 48-41 Mundelein lead. The Mustangs made just two of seven free throws down the stretch - both by Holly Smith - but Carmel committed two more turnovers and could only get a Cheryl Lyle free throw.

The Mustangs led by six points throughout most of the first two quarters until a late-second quarter run doubled the margin at halftime. Ahead 24-18, the Mustangs scored the next seven points of the half as Kathy Orr had two hoops, Churchill had one on a tip-in and Ashley Struggles contributed a freethrow.

"We were just lazy in the first half," Carmel coach Bob Haukedahl, whose team was 2-3 after the tournament, said.

Mundelein, ahead 31-18 at halftime, kept its 13-point cushion in the third quarter, ahead 42-29 after three. Wilhelm said that was critical to his team's chances.

Mundelein's offense began to be rattled in the fourth quarter. Rachel Lackie, who had 17 points, put the Mustangs ahead 46-34 but then a rash of turnovers - five - allowed Carmel to sneak back into contention.

A three-point play by Lyle, who finished with 10 points, brought Carmel to its closest point, trailing 46-41 with 1:43 left. But that was as close as the Corsairs could come.

Forward Michelle Bruns, a senior, scored 12 points to lead Carmel, but fouled out for the second straight game.

"That's very much unlike Michelle," Haukedahl said.

Both Mundelein and Carmel chalked up wins over Grant, which was winless in three tournament games. And both Mundelein squads lost to tourney champ Warren, which won the title for the second straight year.

NWSC loop openers feature rematches

This time around when Grayslake and Johnsburg clash, there will be a "point spread" involved.

Last week when the two teams met, Grayslake needed to beat the Skyhawks by 11 to win the Johnsburg Thanksgiving meet. Grayslake won 58-52, but the margin was not big enough, giving Johnsburg its own tournament crown.

The two teams will be squaring off again Dec. 4 at Grayslake in the Northwest Suburban Conference opener for both teams. Both squads are 2-1 after the Johnsburg tourney.

"We played poorly but we finished 2-1," Grayslake coach Greg Groth said.

Overall, Groth said he liked the play of Timm West and Pete Lupori throughout the tourney. West had 21 points against Johnsburg while Lupori had 19 on nine field goals. For the three games, West had 64 points while Lupori added 50.

For Johnsburg, Chris Diedrich led the way with 18 points and Tom Oefling added 12.

Grayslake, knowing it had to win by 11 before the game, led 16-12 after one quarter and 34-29 at halftime. Johnsburg cut the lead with a 14-10 third quarter.

Groth said the best game for the Rams came in a losing effort to Burlington Central. BC nipped Grayslake at the buzzer in overtime, 65-64.

Burlington gave the Rams a not-so-nice welcome to the three-point play era, canning 10 of those shots to account for almost half of their points.

Burlington jumped off to a 26-18 lead after one but Grayslake got back into the game by winning the second stanza 17-12.

West contributed 33 points for Grayslake's efforts while Lupori had 19 for the Rams.

Round Lake, meanwhile, won two of three games in its own tournament.

The Panthers opened the season with a 61-47 win over Wauconda, lost to tournament champ Dundee-Crown 72-62 but beat McHenry 57-47 in the nightcap.
